I. FACTUAL ALLEGATIONS

1. The United States Government, through the Environmental Protection Agency, has passed and enforced laws designed to protect United States citizens from pollution and in particular, certain chemicals and agents known to cause disease in humans. Automobile manufacturers must abide by these US laws and must adhere to EPA rules and regulations. This case arises because Kirk Steffensen, Susan Tarrence, Terry Hight, Sarah Mutka, Mark Weber, David Winters, Alexander Valdes, David Mann, Joshua Miller, Susan Wall, Carl Johnson, Alexander Laskovski, Charles Hall, Rebecca Perlmutter, Joe Harrison, David Sibley, Matthew Heinly, Rachel Sullivan, Herb Yussim, Christopher Mitzak, Roberta DuBoise, Jessica Alber, and Laura Swenson (“Plaintiffs”) claim that Defendant Volkswagen Group of America (“Volkswagen”) purposefully and intentionally breached the laws of the United States and the rules and regulations of the EPA by selling in the United States vehicles manufactured by its affiliates Volkswagen AG and Audi AG that purposefully evaded federal and state laws. As stated by Cynthia Giles, Assistant Administrator for the Office of Enforcement and Compliance Assurance at the EPA: “Using a defeat device in cars to evade clean air standards is illegal and a threat to public health.” Yet that is exactly what Volkswagen did in its 2009-2015 Volkswagen and Audi diesel vehicles.¹

2. As detailed in the EPA’s Notice of Violation (“NOV”), sophisticated software in the Volkswagen and Audi diesel vehicles sold by Defendant Volkswagen in the United States detects when the vehicle is undergoing official emissions testing and turns full emissions controls on only during the test. But otherwise, that is at all other times that the vehicle is running, the emissions controls are suppressed. This results in cars that meet emissions standards in the laboratory or state testing station, but during normal operation emit nitrogen oxides (NOx) at up to 40 times the standard allowed under United States laws and regulations. The software produced and used by Volkswagen is a “defeat device” as defined by the Clean Air Act.

3. NOx pollution contributes to nitrogen dioxide, ground-level ozone, and fine particulate matter. Exposure to these pollutants has been linked with serious health dangers, including asthma attacks and other respiratory illness serious enough to send people to the hospital. Ozone and particulate matter exposure have been associated with premature death due to respiratory-related or cardiovascular-related effects. Children, the elderly, and people with pre-existing respiratory illness are at acute risk of health effects from these pollutants.

4. The Clean Air Act has strict emissions standards for vehicles and it requires vehicle manufacturers to certify to the EPA that the vehicles sold in the United States meet applicable federal emissions standards to control air pollution. Every vehicle sold in the United States must be covered by an EPA issued certificate of conformity. Under federal law, cars equipped with defeat devices, which reduce the effectiveness of the emissions control system during normal driving conditions, cannot be certified. By manufacturing and selling cars with defeat devices that allowed for higher levels of emissions that were certified to EPA, Volkswagen violated the Clean Air Act, defrauded its customers, and engaged in unfair competition under state and federal law.

5. According the EPA NOV, Volkswagen installed its “defeat device” in at least the following diesel models of its vehicles (the “Affected Vehicles”): MY 2009-2015 VW Jetta; MY 2009-2015 VW Beetle; MY 2009-2015 VW Golf; MY 2014-2015 VW Passat; and MY 2009-2015 Audi A3. Discovery may reveal that additional vehicle models and model years are properly included as Affected Vehicles.

6. Volkswagen expressly marketed and advertised its CleanDiesel models as extraordinarily clean, EPA certified in all 50 states, and powerful. For example, the following promotional material was used in 2010, and similar materials have been used across the spectrum of models using the CleanDiesel engine system:

Burn rubber, not money.

The all-new 2010 Golf TDI Clean Diesel offers fuel efficiency,* power, and performance. Or, in other words, it's a lean, mean, cleaner-burning machine. The Volkswagen TDI engine is cleaner than conventional diesels, emitting as much as 95% fewer sooty emissions than previous diesel engines, as well as a reduction in oxides of nitrogen and sulfur. It's powerful, with the kind of street-savvy torque that brings a smile to every stoplight. It's efficient, using a turbocharger and smart exhaust design to use fuel more effectively. So much so, in fact, that Volkswagen was the first automaker to make clean diesel cars that are certified in all 50 states. And best of all, it will help save you money, with an out-of-this-world EPA-estimated mileage of 30 city/42 highway mpg (automatic)* and over 594 miles on a single tank of fuel.

If efficiency and savings weren't enough, the Golf TDI model also gives you premium features like the multi-function leather steering wheel, the touchscreen Premium VIII radio with a Media Device Interface (MDI) and iPod® cable, SIRIUS® Satellite Radio, a 6-speed manual transmission, fog lights, and the optional navigation package with touchscreen navigation to efficiently find your way to the bank.

"Good, clean fun" takes on a whole new meaning.

7. Volkswagen has charged a substantial premium for the Affected Vehicles, ironically marketed by Volkswagen as "CleanDiesel." For example, for the 2015 Volkswagen Jetta, the base S model has a starting MSRP of $18,780. The base TDI S CleanDiesel, however, has a starting MSRP of $21,640, a price premium of $2,860. The CleanDiesel premium for the highest trim Jetta model is substantially higher. The highest level gas Jetta SE has a starting MSRP of $20,095, while the CleanDiesel TDI SEL MSRP is $26,410, a staggering $6,315 premium.

8. These premiums occur across all of the vehicles in which Volkswagen installed its “defeat device” for emissions testing. The table below sets forth the price premium for each base, mid-level and top-line trim for each affected model:

CleanDiesel Price Premiums

Model	Base	Mid-level	Top-line
VW Jetta	$2,860	$4,300	$6,315
VW Beetle	$4,635	n/a	$2,640
VW Golf	$2,950	$1,000	$1,000
VW Passat	$5,755	$4,750	$6,855
Audi A3	$2,805	$3,095	$2,925

9. Volkswagen has been ordered by the EPA to recall the Affected Vehicles and repair them so that they comply with EPA emissions requirements at all times during normal operation. However, Volkswagen will not be able to make the Affected Vehicles comply with emissions standards without substantially degrading their performance characteristics, including their horsepower and their efficiency. As a result, even if Volkswagen is able to make Class members’ Affected Vehicles EPA compliant, Class members will nonetheless suffer actual harm and damages because their vehicles will no longer perform as they did when purchased and as advertised. This will necessarily result in a diminution in value of every Affected Vehicle and it will cause owners of Affected Vehicles to pay more for fuel while using their affected vehicles.

10. On September 20, 2015, Volkswagen admitted that the EPA allegations were true. It admitted using a “defeat device” in the Affected Vehicles. Its CEO Martin Winterkorn stated: “I personally am deeply sorry that we have broken the trust of our customers and the public.”

11. As a result of Volkswagen's unfair, deceptive, and/or fraudulent business practices, and its failure to disclose that under normal operating conditions the Affected Vehicles emit 40 times the allowed levels, owners and/or lessees of the Affected Vehicles have suffered losses in money and/or property. Had Plaintiffs and Class members known of the "defeat device" at the time they purchased or leased their Affected Vehicles, they would not have purchased or leased those vehicles, or would have paid substantially less for the vehicles than they did. Moreover, when and if Volkswagen recalls the Affected Vehicles and degrades the CleanDiesel engine performance in order to make the Affected Vehicles compliant with EPA standards, Plaintiffs and Class members will be required to spend additional sums on fuel and will not obtain the performance characteristics of their vehicles when purchased. Moreover, affected vehicles will necessarily be worth less in the marketplace because of their decrease in performance and efficiency.

12. Plaintiffs bring this action individually and on behalf of all other current and former owners or lessees of Affected Vehicles. Plaintiffs seek damages, injunctive relief, and equitable relief for the conduct of Volkswagen related to the "defeat device," as alleged in this Complaint.

II. JURISDICTION

13. This Court has jurisdiction pursuant to the Class Action Fairness Act of 2005, 28 U.S.C. § 1332(d), because the proposed Class consists of 100 or more members; the amount in controversy exceeds $5,000,000, exclusive of costs and interest; and minimal diversity exists. This Court also has supplemental jurisdiction over the state law claims pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1367.

III. VENUE

14. Venue is proper in this District under 28 U.S.C. § 1391 because a substantial part of the events or omissions giving rise to Plaintiffs' claims occurred in this District. Plaintiff Kirk Steffensen resides in this District and purchased his Affected Vehicle in this District. Moreover, Volkswagen is headquartered in this District and has marketed, advertised, sold, and leased the Affected Vehicles within this District.

IV. PARTIES

A. Virginia Plaintiffs

1. Kirk Steffensen

15. Plaintiff Kirk Steffensen is an individual residing in Alexandria, Virginia. In 2012, Plaintiff Steffensen purchased a 2013 VW Jetta Sportswagen TDI CleanDiesel from Alexandria Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Alexandria, Virginia. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control "defeat device" which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the "defeat device" by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the "defeat device," but did not disclose the "defeat device" and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

B. Arizona Plaintiffs

1. Susan Tarrence

16. Plaintiff Susan Tarrence is an individual residing in Tucson, Arizona. In 2010, Plaintiff purchased a new 2011 Audi A3 CleanDiesel from Chapman Audi/Volkswagen an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Tucson, Arizona. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, these vehicles. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicles were purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicles on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

C. California Plaintiffs

1. Terry Hight

17. Plaintiff Terry Hight is an individual residing in Walnut Creek, California. In May 2013, Plaintiff purchased a new 2013 Volkswagen Passat TDI SE CleanDiesel from Dirito Brothers, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Walnut Creek, California. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

D. Colorado Plaintiffs

1. Sarah Mutka

18. Plaintiff Sarah Mutka is an individual residing in Denver, Colorado. In 2012, Plaintiff Mutka purchased a new 2013 VW Jetta Sportwagen TDI CleanDiesel from O’Meara Volkswagen of Thornton, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Thornton, Colorado. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

E. Connecticut Plaintiffs

1. Mark Weber

19. Plaintiff Mark Weber is an individual residing in Milford, Connecticut. In 2014, Plaintiff Weber purchased a new 2014 VW Jetta TDI from Curran Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Stratford, Connecticut. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle.

Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of her vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased her vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that her vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

F. Florida Plaintiffs

1. David Winters

20. Plaintiff David Winters is an individual residing in Palm Beach Gardens, Florida. In 2014, Plaintiff Winters purchased a new 2014 VW Passat TDI SEL CleanDiesel from Autonation Delray Beach, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Delray Beach, Florida. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

G. Georgia Plaintiffs

1. Alexander Valdes

21. Plaintiff Alexander Valdes is an individual residing in Atlanta, Georgia. In September 2013, Plaintiff Valdes purchased a used 2011 Volkswagen Jetta TDI CleanDiesel from Hennessy of Lexus, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Atlanta, Georgia. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

H. Illinois Plaintiffs

1. David Mann

22. Plaintiff David Mann is an individual residing in Evanston, Illinois. In 2010, Plaintiff Mann purchased a new 2010 VW Jetta TDI Sportwagen CleanDiesel from The Autobarn Limited, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Evanston, Illinois. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

I. Kentucky Plaintiffs

1. Joshua Miller

23. Plaintiff Joshua Miller is an individual residing in Providence Village, Texas. In 2011, Plaintiff Miller purchased a new 2011 Jetta Sportswagen TDI CleanDiesel from Kerry Nissan, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Florence, Kentucky. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of her vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased her vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that her vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

J. Maine Plaintiffs

1. Susan Wall

24. Plaintiff Susan Wall is an individual residing in Portland, Maine. In 2015, Plaintiff Wall purchased a new 2015 VW Jetta TDI CleanDiesel from Morong Falmouth, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Falmouth, Maine. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

K. Massachusetts Plaintiffs

1. Carl Johnson

25. Plaintiff Carl Johnson is an individual residing in Haverhill, Massachusetts. In August 2015, Plaintiff Johnson purchased a new 2015 Volkswagen Golf Sportwagen TDI CleanDiesel from Kelly Volkswagen an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Danvers, Massachusetts. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

L. Minnesota Plaintiffs

1. Alexander Laskovski

26. Plaintiff Alexander Laskovski is an individual residing in St. Paul, Minnesota. In July 2011, Plaintiff Laskovski purchased a new 2011 Jetta Volkswagen TDI Sportwagen CleanDiesel from Luther West Side Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in St. Louis Park, Minnesota. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, these vehicles. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicles were purchased, they were equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicles complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

M. Missouri Plaintiffs

1. Charles Hall

27. Plaintiff Charles Hall is an individual residing in St. Louis, Missouri. In July 2009, Plaintiff Hall purchased a new 2009 Volkswagen Jetta TDI CleanDiesel from Dean Team Volkswagen of Kirkwood an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Kirkwood, Missouri. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

N. Nevada Plaintiffs

1. Rebecca Perlmutter

28. Plaintiff Rebecca Perlmutter is an individual residing in Henderson, Nevada. In 2013, Plaintiff Perlmutter purchased a new 2012 VW Jetta TDI CleanDiesel from Findlay Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Henderson, Nevada. In 2015, Plaintiff Perlmutter purchased a new 2015 Golf Sportwagen TDI CleanDiesel from Findlay Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Henderson, Nevada. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, both vehicles. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

O. New Hampshire Plaintiffs

1. Joe Harrison

29. Plaintiff Joe Harrison is an individual residing in Portsmouth, New Hampshire. In 2009, Plaintiff Harrison purchased a new 2010 VW Jetta TDI Sportswagen CleanDiesel from Seacoast Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Greenland, New Hampshire. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

P. New York Plaintiffs

1. David Sibley

30. Plaintiff David Sibley is an individual residing in Manhasset, New York. In July 2013, Plaintiff Sibley purchased a new 2013 Volkswagen Jetta TDI (Premim + Nav) CleanDiesel from Bay Ridge Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Brooklyn, New York. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by

Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

Q. North Carolina Plaintiffs

1. Matthew Heinly

31. Plaintiff Matthew Heinly is an individual residing in Wake Forest, North Carolina. In 2015, Plaintiff Heinly purchased a new 2015 VW Jetta TDI SEL CleanDiesel from Southern States Volkswagen an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Durham, North Carolina. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

R. Ohio Plaintiffs

1. Rachel Sullivan

32. Plaintiff Rachel Sullivan is an individual residing in Lakewood, Ohio. In 2013, Plaintiff Sullivan purchased a new 2013 Jetta Sedan 2.0L TDI CleanDiesel from Ganley Westside Volkswagen, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in North Olmsted, Ohio. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of her vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased her vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that her vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

S. Oregon Plaintiffs

1. Herb Yussim

33. Plaintiff Herb Yussim is an individual residing in Bandon, Oregon. In September 2015, Plaintiff Yussim purchased a new 2015 Volkswagen Passat TDI SEL Premium CleanDiesel from Shepard Motors, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Eugene, Oregon. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by

Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

T. Pennsylvania Plaintiffs

1. Christopher Mitzak

34. Plaintiff Christopher Mitzak is an individual residing in Easton, Pennsylvania. In 2015, Plaintiff Mitzak purchased a new 2015 Volkswagen Jetta TDI SE CleanDiesel from Young Volkswagen an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Easton, Pennsylvania. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of her vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased her vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that her vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

U. Texas Plaintiffs

1. Roberta DuBoise

35. Plaintiff Roberta DuBoise is an individual residing in Weatherford, Texas. In 2014, Plaintiff DuBoise purchased a new 2014 Volkswagen Jetta TDI CleanDiesel from Southwest Volkswagen f/k/a Volkswagen of Weatherford, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Weatherford, Texas. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

V. Washington Plaintiffs

1. Jessica Alber

36. Plaintiff Jessica Alber is an individual residing in Puyallup, Washington. In 2013, Plaintiff Alber purchased a used 2010 VW Jetta Sportwagen TDI CleanDiesel from TDI Motors, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Bellevue, Washington. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

W. Wisconsin Plaintiffs

1. Laura Swenson

37. Plaintiff Laura Swenson is an individual residing in Brookfield, Wisconsin. In 2015, Plaintiff Swenson purchased a used 2014 VW Jetta Sportswagen TDI CleanDiesel from Sleepy Hollow Doge/Chrysler, an authorized Volkswagen dealer in Viroqua, Wisconsin. Plaintiff purchased, and still owns, this vehicle. Unknown to Plaintiff, at the time the vehicle was purchased, it was equipped with an emissions control “defeat device” which caused the vehicle to get an undue EPA certification and pass emissions tests, but at all other times emit 40 times the allowed level of pollutants, including NOx. The use of the “defeat device” by Volkswagen has caused Plaintiff out-of-pocket loss, future attempted repairs, and diminished value of his vehicle. Volkswagen knew about and purposefully used the “defeat device,” but did not disclose the “defeat device” and its effects to Plaintiff, so Plaintiff purchased his vehicle on the reasonable, but mistaken, belief that his vehicle complied with United States emissions standards, was properly EPA certified, and would retain all of its operating characteristics throughout its useful life.

B. Defendant

38. Volkswagen Group of America, Inc., is a corporation doing business in all 50 states (including the District of Columbia) and is organized under the laws of the State of New Jersey, with its principal place of business located at 2200 Ferdinand Porsche Dr., Herndon, Virginia 20171. At all times relevant to this action, Volkswagen manufactured, distributed, sold, leased, and warranted the Affected Vehicles under the Volkswagen and Audi brand names throughout the United States. Volkswagen and/or its agents designed, manufactured, and installed the CleanDiesel engine systems in the Affected Vehicles, which included the “defeat device.” Volkswagen also developed and disseminated the owner’s manuals and warranty booklets, advertisements, and other promotional materials relating to the Affected Vehicles.

V. TOLLING OF THE STATUTE OF LIMITATIONS

A. Discovery Rule Tolling

39. Class Members had no way of knowing about Volkswagen’s deception with respect to its CleanDiesel engine system and “defeat device.” It took federal EPA and California Air Resources Board investigations to uncover Volkswagen’s deception, which involved sophisticated software manipulation on Volkswagen’s part. As reported by the Los Angeles Times on September 18, 2015, it took California Air Resources Board testing on a special dynamometer in a laboratory, open road testing using portable equipment, and the use of special testing devised by the Board to uncover Volkswagen’s scheme and to detect how software on the engine’s electronic control module was deceiving emissions certifications tests. Plainly, Volkswagen was intent on expressly hiding its behavior from regulators and consumers. This is the quintessential case for tolling.

40. Within the time period of any applicable statutes of limitation, Plaintiffs and members of the proposed classes could not have discovered through the exercise of reasonable diligence that Volkswagen was concealing the conduct complained of herein and misrepresenting the Company’s true position with respect to the emission qualities of its vehicles.

41. Plaintiffs and the other Class Members did not discover, and did not know of facts that would have caused a reasonable person to suspect, that Volkswagen did not report information within its knowledge to federal and state authorities, its dealerships, or consumers; nor would a reasonable and diligent investigation have disclosed that Volkswagen had information in its possession about the existence of its sophisticated emissions scheme and that it opted to conceal that information, which was discovered by Plaintiffs only shortly before this action was filed. Nor in any event would such an investigation on the part of Plaintiffs and other Class members have disclosed that Volkswagen valued profits over compliance with federal and state law, or the trust that Plaintiffs and other Class members had placed in its representations, or that, necessarily, Volkswagen actively discouraged its personnel from raising or disclosing issues with regard to the true quality and quantity of the emissions, and the emissions software, of its vehicles, or of Volkswagen's emissions scheme.

42. For these reasons, all applicable statutes of limitation have been tolled by operation of the discovery rule with respect to claims as to all vehicles identified herein.

B. Fraudulent Concealment Tolling

43. All applicable statutes of limitation have also been tolled by Volkswagen's knowing and active fraudulent concealment and denial of the facts alleged herein throughout the time period relevant to this action.

44. Instead of disclosing its emissions scheme, or that the quality and quantity of emissions from the subject vehicles were far worse than represented, and of its disregard of federal and state law, Volkswagen falsely represented that its vehicles complied with federal and state emissions standards, and that it was a reputable manufacturer whose representations could be trusted.

C. Estoppel

45. Volkswagen was under a continuous duty to disclose to Plaintiffs and the other Class members the true character, quality, and nature of emissions from the vehicles at issue, and of those vehicles' emissions systems, and of the compliance of those systems with applicable federal and state law.

46. Volkswagen knowingly, affirmatively, and actively concealed the true nature, quality, and character of the emissions systems, and the emissions, of the vehicles at issue.

47. Volkswagen was also under a continuous duty to disclose to Plaintiffs and Class members that it had engaged in the scheme complained of herein to evade federal and state emissions and clean air standards, and that it systematically devalued compliance with, and deliberately flouted, federal and state law regulating vehicle emissions and clean air.

48. Based on the foregoing, Volkswagen is estopped from relying on any statutes of limitations in defense of this action.

VI. CLASS ALLEGATIONS

49. Plaintiffs brings this action on behalf of themselves and as a class action, pursuant to the provisions of Rules 23(a), (b)(2), and (b)(3) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure on behalf of the following class and subclasses (collectively, the “Classes”):

The Washington Subclass

All persons or entities in the state of Washington who are current or former owners and/or lessees of an “Affected Vehicle.” Affected Vehicles include, without limitation: MY 2009-2015 VW Jetta; MY 2009-2015 VW Beetle; MY 2009-2015 VW Golf; MY 2014-2015 VW Passat; and MY 2009-2015 Audi A3.

The Wisconsin Subclass

All persons or entities in the state of Wisconsin who are current or former owners and/or lessees of an “Affected Vehicle.” Affected Vehicles include, without limitation: MY 2009-2015 VW Jetta; MY 2009-2015 VW Beetle; MY 2009-2015 VW Golf; MY 2014-2015 VW Passat; and MY 2009-2015 Audi A3.

50. Excluded from the Class are individuals who have personal injury claims resulting from the “defeat device” in the CleanDiesel system. Also excluded from the Class are Volkswagen and its subsidiaries and affiliates; all persons who make a timely election to be excluded from the Class; governmental entities; and the judge to whom this case is assigned and his/her immediate family. Plaintiffs reserve the right to revise the Class definition based upon information learned through discovery.

51. Certification of Plaintiffs’ claims for class-wide treatment is appropriate because Plaintiffs can prove the elements of their claims on a class-wide basis using the same evidence as would be used to prove those elements in individual actions alleging the same claim.

52. This action has been brought and may be properly maintained on behalf of each of the Classes proposed herein under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23.

53. Numerosity. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(1): The members of the Classes are so numerous and geographically dispersed that individual joinder of all Class members is impracticable. While Plaintiffs are informed and believes that there are not less than hundreds of thousands of members of the Class, the precise number of Class members is unknown to Plaintiffs, but may be ascertained from Volkswagen's books and records. Class members may be notified of the pendency of this action by recognized, Court-approved notice dissemination methods, which may include U.S. mail, electronic mail, Internet postings, and/or published notice.

54. Commonality and Predominance: Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(2) and 23(b)(3): This action involves common questions of law and fact, which predominate over any questions affecting individual Class members, including, without limitation:

- a) Whether Volkswagen engaged in the conduct alleged herein;
- b) Whether Volkswagen designed, advertised, marketed, distributed, leased, sold, or otherwise placed Affected Vehicles into the stream of commerce in the United States;
- c) Whether the CleanDiesel engine system in the Affected Vehicles contains a defect in that it does not comply with U.S. EPA requirements;
- d) Whether the CleanDiesel engine systems in Affected Vehicles can be made to comply with EPA standards without substantially degrading the performance and/or efficiency of the Affected Vehicles;
- e) Whether Volkswagen knew about the "defeat device" and, if so, how long Volkswagen has known;

- f) Whether Volkswagen designed, manufactured, marketed, and distributed Affected Vehicles with a “defeat device”;
- g) Whether Volkswagen’s conduct violates consumer protection statutes, warranty laws, and other laws as asserted herein;
- h) Whether Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles;
- i) Whether Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to equitable relief, including, but not limited to, restitution or injunctive relief; and
- j) Whether Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to damages and other monetary relief and, if so, in what amount.

55. Typicality: Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(3): Plaintiffs’ claims are typical of the other Class members’ claims because, among other things, all Class members were comparably injured through Volkswagen’s wrongful conduct as described above.

56. Adequacy: Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(a)(4): Plaintiffs are adequate Class representative because their interests do not conflict with the interests of the other members of the Classes they seek to represent; Plaintiffs have retained counsel competent and experienced in complex class action litigation; and Plaintiffs intend to prosecute this action vigorously. The Classes’ interests will be fairly and adequately protected by Plaintiffs and their counsel.

57. Declaratory and Injunctive Relief: Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(2): Volkswagen has acted or refused to act on grounds generally applicable to Plaintiffs and the other members of the Classes, thereby making appropriate final injunctive relief and declaratory relief, as described below, with respect to the Class as a whole.

58. Superiority: Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 23(b)(3): A class action is superior to any other available means for the fair and efficient adjudication of this controversy, and no unusual difficulties are likely to be encountered in the management of this class action. The damages or other financial detriment suffered by Plaintiffs and the other Class members are relatively small compared to the burden and expense that would be required to individually litigate their claims against Volkswagen, so it would be impracticable for the members of the Classes to individually seek redress for Volkswagen's wrongful conduct. Even if Class members could afford individual litigation, the court system could not. Individualized litigation creates a potential for inconsistent or contradictory judgments, and increases the delay and expense to all parties and the court system. By contrast, the class action device presents far fewer management difficulties, and provides the benefits of single adjudication, economy of scale, and comprehensive supervision by a single court.

VII. VIOLATIONS ALLEGED

A. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Nationwide Class and the Virginia Subclass Under Virginia Law

COUNT I

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT UNDER VIRGINIA LAW

59. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

60. This claim is brought on behalf of the Nationwide Class and the Virginia Subclass.

61. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as "Clean Diesel," or to their engines as "TDI Clean Diesel” engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles’ emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen’s deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

62. Plaintiffs and Class members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen’s false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen’s representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiffs and Class members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen’s deception on their own.

63. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen – one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air law, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiffs and Class members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 18, 2015 article, “It’s just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. That’s just a whole other level of not only lying to the government, but also lying to your consumer. People buy diesel cars from Volkswagen because they feel they are clean diesel cars.” In the words of Ms. Shah, which no doubt reflect the sentiments of all other “CleanDiesel” vehicle buyers, “I don’t want to be spewing noxious gases into the environment.”

64. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable law and regulations. Volkswagen’s false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

65. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the vehicles at issue because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs or Class members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiffs, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and Class members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and Class members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this – except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

66. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not or could not comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand's image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class members.

67. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

68. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly "clean" diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiffs' and Class Members' actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or Class members.

69. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and Class members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen's concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles' emissions and Volkswagen's failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of hundreds of thousands of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues engendered by Volkswagen's corporate policies. Had Plaintiffs and Class members been aware of Volkswagen's emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company's callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations, Plaintiffs and Class members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

70. The value of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen's fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiffs' and Class members' vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

71. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and Class members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

72. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and Class members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. To the extent permitted under applicable law Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

73. Plaintiffs plead this count pursuant to the law of Virginia, where Volkswagen has its American headquarters, on behalf of all members of the Nationwide Class. As necessary, and in the alternative, Plaintiffs stand ready to plead sub-classes, based on the residences at pertinent times of members of the Nationwide Class, to allege fraudulent concealment under the laws of states other than Virginia.

COUNT II
VIOLATIONS OF THE VIRGINIA CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(Va. Code Ann. §§ 59.1-196, et seq.)

74. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

75. This claim is brought on behalf of the Nationwide Class and the Virginia Subclass.

76. The Virginia Consumer Protection prohibits "(5) misrepresenting that goods or services have certain quantities, characteristics, ingredients, uses, or benefits; (6) misrepresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, grade, style, or model; ... (8) advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised ...; [and] (14) using any other deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, or misrepresentation in connection with a consumer transaction[.]" VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-200(A).

77. Volkswagen is a “person” as defined by VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-198. The transactions between Plaintiffs and the other Class members on one hand and Volkswagen on the other, leading to the purchase or lease of the Affected Vehicles by Plaintiffs and the other Class members, are “consumer transactions” as defined by VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-198, because the Affected Vehicles were purchased or leased primarily for personal, family or household purposes.

78. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the “defeat device” in Affected Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, Volkswagen engaged in acts and practices violating VA. CODE ANN. § 59.1-200(A), including representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and otherwise engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

79. Volkswagen’s actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

80. Volkswagen’s conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

81. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were injured as a result of Volkswagen’s conduct in that Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Affected Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of Volkswagen’s misrepresentations and omissions.

82. Volkswagen actively and willfully concealed and/or suppressed the material facts regarding the defective and non-EPA compliant CleanDiesel engine system, the “defeat device” and the Affected Vehicles, in whole or in part, with the intent to deceive and mislead Plaintiffs and the other Class members and to induce Plaintiffs and the other Class members to purchase or lease Affected Vehicles at a higher price, which did not match the Affected Vehicles’ true value. Plaintiffs and the other Class members therefore seek treble damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Virginia Law)

83. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

84. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the Nationwide Class and Virginia Subclass.

85. Volkswagen’s misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen’s failure to disclose the CleanDiesel engine system was not EPA-compliant and the existence of the “defeat device” as alleged herein, caused Plaintiffs and the other Class members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain non EPA-compliant engine systems and a “defeat device.” Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

86. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiffs and the other Class members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the CleanDiesel engine system was not EPA-compliant and failing to disclose the existence of the “defeat device,” including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle illegal under U.S. environmental laws, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with CleanDiesel engine systems.

87. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen’s breach of contract, Plaintiffs and the Class have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

B. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Arizona Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE CONSUMER FRAUD ACT
(ARIZ. REV. STAT. §§ 44-1521, et seq.)

88. Plaintiff Susan Tarrence (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Arizona Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

89. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Arizona Subclass.

90. Plaintiff and Volkswagen are each “persons” as defined by ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1521(6). The Affected Vehicles are “merchandise” as defined by ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1521(5).

91. The Arizona Consumer Fraud Act proscribes “[t]he act, use or employment by any person of any deception, deceptive act or practice, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby.” ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1522(A).

92. By failing to disclose and actively concealing that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a “defeat device” in the Affected Vehicles, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act, ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 44-1522(A), including (1) representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have, (2) representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not, (3) advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised, and (4) engaging in acts or practices which are otherwise unfair, misleading, false, or deceptive to the consumer.

93. As alleged above, Volkswagen made numerous material statements about the benefits and characteristics of the CleanDiesel system that were either false or misleading. Each of these statements contributed to the deceptive context of Volkswagen’s unlawful advertising and representations as a whole.

94. Volkswagen knew that the CleanDiesel engine systems in the Affected Vehicles were defectively designed or manufactured, did not comply with EPA regulations, used a “defeat device,” and were not suitable for their intended use. Volkswagen nevertheless failed to warn Plaintiff about these defects despite having a duty to do so.

95. Volkswagen owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in the Affected Vehicles, because Volkswagen:

- i) Possessed exclusive knowledge of the defects rendering the Affected Vehicles illegal under EPA regulations;

- ii) Intentionally concealed the defects associated with CleanDiesel engine systems through its deceptive marketing campaigns and use of the “defeat device” that it designed to hide the defects in the CleanDiesel engine system; and/or
- iii) Made incomplete representations about the characteristics and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system generally, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiff that contradicted these representations.

96. Volkswagen’s unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff, about the true performance and characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system in Affected Vehicles.

97. As a result of its violations of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act detailed above, Volkswagen caused actual damage to Plaintiff and, if not stopped, will continue to harm Plaintiff. Plaintiff currently owns or leases, or within the class period has owned or leased, an Affected Vehicle that is defective. Defects associated with the CleanDiesel engine system have caused the value of Affected Vehicles to decrease.

98. Plaintiff and the Class sustained damages as a result of the Volkswagen’s unlawful acts and are, therefore, entitled to damages and other relief as provided under the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act.

99. Plaintiff also seeks court costs and attorneys’ fees as a result of Volkswagen’s violation of the Arizona Consumer Fraud Act as provided in ARIZ. REV. STAT. § 12-341.01.

COUNT II

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Arizona Law)

100. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

101. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Arizona Subclass.

102. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Arizona Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Arizona Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Arizona Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

103. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Arizona Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

104. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Arizona Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT III

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT (Based on Arizona Law)

105. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

106. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Arizona Subclass.

107. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a "defeat device," or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

108. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

109. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

110. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

111. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

112. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

113. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

114. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s reputation – along with Volkswagen’s failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system and Volkswagen’s affirmative assurance that its Affected Vehicles were safe and reliable, and other similar false statements – in purchasing or leasing Affected Vehicles.

115. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Affected Vehicles.

116. Volkswagen’s conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages to the extent permitted under applicable law.

C. Claims Brought on Behalf of the California Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF CALIFORNIA UNFAIR COMPETITION LAW
(CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17200, et seq.)

117. Plaintiff Terry Hight (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all California Class Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

118. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

119. California’s Unfair Competition Law (“UCL”), CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17200, et seq., proscribes acts of unfair competition, including “any unlawful, unfair or fraudulent business act or practice and unfair, deceptive, untrue or misleading advertising.”

120. Volkswagen’s conduct, as described herein, was and is in violation of the UCL. Volkswagen’s conduct violates the UCL in at least the following ways:

- i. By knowingly and intentionally concealing from Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members that the Affected Vehicles suffer from a design defect while obtaining money from Plaintiffs and the Class;
- ii. By marketing Affected Vehicles as possessing functional and defect-free, EPA compliant CleanDiesel engine systems;
- iii. By purposefully installing an illegal “defeat device” in the Affected Vehicles to fraudulently obtain EPA certification and cause Affected Vehicles to pass emissions tests when in truth and fact they did not pass such tests;
- iv. By violating federal laws, including the Clean Air Act; and

- v. By violating other California laws, including California laws governing vehicle emissions and emission testing requirements.

121. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein caused Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain CleanDiesel engine systems that failed to comply with EPA and California emissions standards.

122. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members have suffered injury in fact including lost money or property as a result of Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions.

123. Plaintiff seeks to enjoin further unlawful, unfair, and/or fraudulent acts or practices by Volkswagen under CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17200.

124. Plaintiff requests that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be necessary to enjoin Volkswagen from continuing its unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices and to restore to Plaintiffs and members of the Class any money it acquired by unfair competition, including restitution and/or restitutionary disgorgement, as provided in CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 17203 and CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 3345; and for such other relief set forth below.

COUNT II

VIOLATION OF CALIFORNIA CONSUMERS LEGAL REMEDIES ACT (CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 1750, et seq.)

125. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

126. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

127. California's Consumers Legal Remedies Act ("CLRA"), CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 1750, et seq., proscribes "unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices undertaken by any person in a transaction intended to result or which results in the sale or lease of goods or services to any consumer."

128. The Affected Vehicles are "goods" as defined in CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1761(a).

129. Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members are "consumers" as defined in CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1761(d), and Plaintiff, the other California Subclass members, and Volkswagen are "persons" as defined in CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1761(c).

130. As alleged above, Volkswagen made numerous representations concerning the benefits, efficiency, performance and safety features of CleanDiesel engine systems that were misleading.

131. In purchasing or leasing the Affected Vehicles, Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members were deceived by Volkswagen's failure to disclose that the Affected Vehicles were equipped with defective CleanDiesel engine systems that failed EPA and California emissions standards.

132. Volkswagen's conduct, as described hereinabove, was and is in violation of the CLRA. Volkswagen's conduct violates at least the following enumerated CLRA provisions:

- i. CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1770(a)(5): Representing that goods have characteristics, uses, and benefits which they do not have;
- ii. CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1770(a)(7): Representing that goods are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, if they are of another;
- iii. CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1770(a)(9): Advertising goods with intent not to sell them as advertised; and
- iv. CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1770(a)(16): Representing that goods have been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when they have not.

133. Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members have suffered injury in fact and actual damages resulting from Volkswagen's material omissions and misrepresentations because they paid an inflated purchase or lease price for the Affected Vehicles and because they stand to pay additional fuel costs if and when their Affected Vehicles are made to comply with emissions standards.

134. Volkswagen knew, should have known, or was reckless in not knowing of the defective design and/or manufacture of the CleanDiesel engine systems, and that the Affected Vehicles were not suitable for their intended use.

135. The facts concealed and omitted by Volkswagen to Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members are material in that a reasonable consumer would have considered them to be important in deciding whether to purchase or lease the Affected Vehicles or pay a lower price. Had Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members known about the defective nature of the Affected Vehicles, they would not have purchased or leased the Affected Vehicles or would not have paid the prices they paid.

136. Plaintiffs have provided Volkswagen with notice of its violations of the CLRA pursuant to CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE § 1782(a). The notice was transmitted to Volkswagen on September 21, 2015.

137. Plaintiff's and the other California Subclass members' injuries were proximately caused by Volkswagen's fraudulent and deceptive business practices.

138. Therefore, Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members are entitled to equitable and monetary relief under the CLRA.

COUNT III

VIOLATION OF CALIFORNIA FALSE ADVERTISING LAW (CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE §§ 17500, et seq.)

139. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

140. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

141. California Bus. & Prof. Code § 17500 states: "It is unlawful for any ... corporation ... with intent directly or indirectly to dispose of real or personal property ... to induce the public to enter into any obligation relating thereto, to make or disseminate or cause to be made or disseminated ... from this state before the public in any state, in any newspaper or other publication, or any advertising device, ... or in any other manner or means whatever, including over the Internet, any statement ... which is untrue or misleading, and which is known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should be known, to be untrue or misleading."

142. Volkswagen caused to be made or disseminated through California and the United States, through advertising, marketing and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Volkswagen, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiff and the other Class members.

143. Volkswagen has violated § 17500 because the misrepresentations and omissions regarding the safety, reliability, and functionality of Affected Vehicles as set forth in this Complaint were material and likely to deceive a reasonable consumer.

144. Plaintiff and the other Class members have suffered an injury in fact, including the loss of money or property, as a result of Volkswagen's unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices. In purchasing or leasing their Affected Vehicles, Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on the misrepresentations and/or omissions of Volkswagen with respect to the safety, performance and reliability of the Affected Vehicles. Volkswagen's representations turned out not to be true because the Affected Vehicles are distributed with faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine systems, rendering certain safety and emissions functions inoperative. Had Plaintiff and the other Class members known this, they would not have purchased or leased their Affected Vehicles and/or paid as much for them. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

145. All of the wrongful conduct alleged herein occurred, and continues to occur, in the conduct of Volkswagen's business. Volkswagen's wrongful conduct is part of a pattern or generalized course of conduct that is still perpetuated and repeated, both in the State of California and nationwide.

146. Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, requests that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be necessary to enjoin Volkswagen from continuing their unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices and to restore to Plaintiff and the other Class members any money Volkswagen acquired by unfair competition, including restitution and/or restitutionary disgorgement, and for such other relief set forth below.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on California Law)

147. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

148. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the California Subclass.

149. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the "defeat device" and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and the "defeat device." Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

150. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other California Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the "defeat device" and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle less safe and emissions compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with CleanDiesel engine systems and “defeat devices.”

151. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen’s breach of contract, Plaintiff and the California Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT V

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT (Based on California Law)

152. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

153. This claim is brought on behalf of California Subclass members.

154. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as “CleanDiesel,” or to their engines as “TDI Clean Diesel” engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles’ emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen’s deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

155. Plaintiff and California Subclass members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen's false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen's representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiff and California Subclass members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen's deception on their own.

156. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen – one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air law, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiff and California Subclass members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 15, 2015 article, "It's just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. That's just a whole other level of not only lying to the government, but also lying to your consumer. People buy diesel cars from Volkswagen because they feel they are clean diesel cars." As Ms. Shah put it, "I don't want to be spewing noxious gases into the environment."

157. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiff and California Subclass Members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable law and regulations. Volkswagen's false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiff and California Subclass Members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

158. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the Affected Vehicles because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiff or California Subclass Members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiff, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and California Subclass members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and California Subclass members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this – except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

159. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not or could not comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand's image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiff and California Subclass members.

160. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiff and California Subclass members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

161. Plaintiff and California Subclass members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly “clean” diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiff's and California Subclass Members' actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiff, or California Subclass Members.

162. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiff and California Subclass members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen's concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles' emissions and Volkswagen's failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of millions of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues engendered by Volkswagen's corporate policies. Had Plaintiff and California Subclass members been aware of Volkswagen's emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company's callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations, Plaintiff and California Subclass members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

163. The value of Plaintiff's and California Subclass Members' vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen's fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiff's and California Subclass members' vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

164. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiff and California Subclass members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

165. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiff's and California Subclass members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

D. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Colorado Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE COLORADO CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(COLO. REV. STAT. §§ 6-1-101, et seq.)

166. Plaintiff Sarah Mutka (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Colorado Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

167. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

168. Colorado’s Consumer Protection Act (the “CCPA”) prohibits a person from engaging in a “deceptive trade practice,” which includes knowingly making “a false representation as to the source, sponsorship, approval, or certification of goods,” or “a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations, or quantities of goods.” COLO. REV. STAT. § 6-1-105(1)(b), (e). The CCPA further prohibits “represent[ing] that goods ... are of a particular standard, quality, or grade ... if he knows or should know that they are of another,” and “advertis[ing] goods ... with intent not to sell them as advertised.” CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE. § 6-1-105(1)(g), (i).

169. Volkswagen is a “person” within the meaning of CAL. BUS. & PROF. CODE. § 6-1-102(6).

170. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully misrepresented and failed to disclose, and actively concealed, that the CleanDiesel Engine System was non-EPA compliant, and the use of the “defeat device” in Affected Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, Volkswagen engaged in unlawful trade practices, including representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and otherwise engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

171. Volkswagen's actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

172. Volkswagen's conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiff and the other Class members.

173. Plaintiff and the other Class members were injured as a result of Volkswagen's conduct in that Plaintiff and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Affected Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions.

COUNT II

STRICT PRODUCT LIABILITY (Based on Colorado Law)

174. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

175. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

176. Colorado law recognizes an action for product defects that complements Colorado's Product Liability Statute, COLO. REV. STAT. TITLE 13, Article 21, Part 4.

177. Volkswagen is a "manufacturer" and "seller" of the Affected Vehicles within the meaning of COLO. REV. STAT. § 13-21-401(1).

178. Volkswagen manufactured and sold the Affected Vehicles in a defective condition and in a condition that was unreasonably dangerous to drivers, other motorists, pedestrians, and others or to their property, including persons who may reasonably be expected to use, consume, or be affected by them, in at least the following respects: (i) the Affected Vehicles were defectively designed, assembled, fabricated, produced, and constructed in that they were not EPA compliant and used a “defeat device”; and (ii) the Affected Vehicles were not accompanied by adequate warnings about their defective nature.

179. The Affected Vehicles were defective and unreasonably dangerous at the time they were sold by Volkswagen and were intended to and did reach Plaintiff and the other Class Members in substantially the same condition as they were in when they were manufactured, sold, and left the control of Volkswagen.

180. Plaintiff and the other Class members are persons who were reasonably expected to use, consume, or be affected by the Affected Vehicles.

181. As a direct and proximate result of the defective and illegal conditions of the Affected Vehicles, Plaintiff and the other Class members have suffered damages.

COUNT III

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Colorado Law)

182. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

183. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

184. Volkswagen’s misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen’s failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system’s defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Colorado Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Colorado Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Colorado Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

185. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Colorado Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

186. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Colorado Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT IV

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT (Based on Colorado Law)

187. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

188. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Colorado Subclass.

189. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a "defeat device", or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

190. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

191. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

192. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

193. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

194. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

195. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

196. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen's reputation – along with Volkswagen's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system and Volkswagen's affirmative assurance that its Affected Vehicles were safe and reliable, and other similar false statements – in purchasing or leasing Volkswagen's Affected Vehicles.

197. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Affected Vehicles.

198. Volkswagen's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages to the extent permitted under applicable law.

E. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Connecticut Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. §§ 42-110A, et seq.)

199. Plaintiff Mark Weber ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Connecticut Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

200. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Connecticut Subclass.

201. Plaintiff and Volkswagen are each "persons" as defined by CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. § 42-110a(3).

202. The Connecticut Unfair Trade Practices Act (“CUTPA”) provides that “[n]o person shall engage in unfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce.” CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. § 42-110b(a). The CUTPA further provides a private right of action under CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. § 42-110g(a).

203. By failing to disclose and actively concealing that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a “defeat device” in the Affected Vehicles, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the CUTPA, including (1) representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have, (2) representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not, (3) advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised, and (4) engaging in acts or practices which are otherwise unfair, misleading, false, or deceptive to the consumer.

204. As alleged above, Volkswagen made numerous material statements about the benefits and characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system that were either false or misleading. Each of these statements contributed to the deceptive context of Volkswagen’s unlawful advertising and representations as a whole.

205. Volkswagen knew that the CleanDiesel engine system in the Affected Vehicles were defectively designed or manufactured, were not EPA-compliant, and were not suitable for their intended use. Volkswagen nevertheless failed to warn Plaintiff about these defects despite having a duty to do so.

206. Volkswagen owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in the Affected Vehicles, because Volkswagen:

- a) Possessed exclusive knowledge of the defects rendering the Affected Vehicles illegal under EPA standards;
- b) Intentionally concealed the defects associated with CleanDiesel through its deceptive marketing campaigns that it designed to hide the defects in the CleanDiesel engine system; and/or
- c) Made incomplete representations about the characteristics and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system generally, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiff that contradicted these representations.

207. Volkswagen's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff, about the true performance and characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system.

208. As a result of its violations of the CUTPA detailed above, Volkswagen caused actual damage to Plaintiff and, if not stopped, will continue to harm Plaintiff. Plaintiff currently owns or leases, or within the class period has owned or leased, an Affected Vehicle that is defective. Defects associated with the CleanDiesel engine system have caused the value of Affected Vehicles to decrease.

209. Plaintiff and the Class sustained damages as a result of the Volkswagen's unlawful acts and are, therefore, entitled to damages and other relief as provided under the CUTPA.

210. Plaintiff also seeks court costs and attorneys' fees as a result of Volkswagen's violation of the CUTPA as provided in CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. § 42-110g(d). A copy of this Complaint has been mailed to the Attorney General and the Commissioner of Consumer Protection of the State of Connecticut in accordance with CONN. GEN. STAT. ANN. § 42-110g(c).

COUNT II

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Connecticut Law)

211. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

212. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Connecticut Subclass.

213. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Connecticut Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Connecticut Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Connecticut Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

214. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Connecticut Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected

Vehicle non-EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

215. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Connecticut Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT III

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT (Based on Connecticut Law)

216. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

217. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Connecticut Subclass.

218. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a "defeat device," or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

219. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

220. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

221. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

222. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

223. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

224. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

225. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s reputation – along with Volkswagen’s failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system and Volkswagen’s affirmative assurance that its Affected Vehicles were safe and reliable, and other similar false statements – in purchasing or leasing Volkswagen’s Affected Vehicles.

226. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Affected Vehicles.

227. Volkswagen's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

F. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Florida Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE FLORIDA DECEPTIVE & UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(FLA. STAT. §§ 501.201, et seq.)

228. Plaintiff David Winters ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Florida Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

229. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

230. Florida's Deceptive and Unfair Trade Practices Act prohibits "[u]nfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." FLA. STAT. § 501.204(1).

231. In the course of Volkswagen's business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed that the CleanDiesel Engine System was non-EPA compliant, and the use of the "defeat device" in Affected Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, Volkswagen engaged in unfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices as defined in FLA. STAT. § 501.204(1), including representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and otherwise engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

232. Volkswagen's actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

233. Volkswagen's conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiff and the other Class members.

234. Plaintiff and the other Class members were injured as a result of Volkswagen's conduct in that Plaintiff and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Affected Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions.

COUNT II

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Florida Law)

235. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

236. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

237. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Florida Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Florida Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Florida Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

238. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Florida Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

239. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Florida Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT III

FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT (Based on Florida Law)

240. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

241. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Florida Subclass.

242. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a "defeat device," or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

243. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

244. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

245. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA-compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

246. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

247. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

248. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle.

Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

249. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen's reputation – along with Volkswagen's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system and Volkswagen's affirmative assurance that its Affected Vehicles were safe and reliable, and other similar false statements – in purchasing or leasing Volkswagen's Affected Vehicles.

250. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Affected Vehicles.

251. Volkswagen's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

G. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Georgia Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF GEORGIA'S FAIR BUSINESS PRACTICES ACT
(GA. CODE ANN. § 10-1-390, et seq.)

252. Plaintiff Alexander Valdes ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Georgia Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

253. Plaintiffs intend to assert a claim under the Georgia Fair Business Practices Act ("Georgia FBPA") which declares "[u]nfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of consumer transactions and consumer acts or practices in trade or commerce" to be unlawful, GA. CODE. ANN. § 10-1-393(a), including but not limited to "representing that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have," "[r]epresenting that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade ... if they are of another,” and “[a]dvertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised.” GA. CODE. ANN. § 10-1-393(b). Plaintiffs will make a demand in satisfaction of GA. CODE. ANN. § 10-1-399, and may amend this Complaint to assert claims under the Georgia FBPA once the required 30 days have elapsed. This paragraph is included for purposes of notice only and is not intended to actually assert a claim under the Georgia FBPA.

COUNT II

VIOLATION OF GEORGIA’S UNIFORM DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT (GA. CODE ANN. § 10-1-370, et seq.)

254. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

255. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

256. Volkswagen, Plaintiff, and the Georgia Subclass are “persons” within the meaning of Georgia Uniform Deceptive Trade Practices Act (“Georgia UDTPA”), GA. CODE. ANN. § 10-1-371(5).

257. The Georgia UDTPA prohibits “deceptive trade practices,” which include the “misrepresentation of standard or quality of goods or services,” and “engaging in any other conduct which similarly creates a likelihood of confusion or of misunderstanding.” GA. CODE. ANN. § 10-1-372(a). By fraudulently installing the “defeat device” to make it appear that its CleanDiesel engine systems complied with EPA regulations, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive trade practices prohibited by the Georgia UDTPA.

258. In the course of its business, Volkswagen installed the “defeat device” and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations as described herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

259. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true nature of its CleanDiesel engine system for at least six years, but concealed all of that information until recently.

260. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen concealed this information as well.

261. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Georgia UDTPA.

262. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

263. Volkswagen's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen and Audi brands, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

264. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Georgia Subclass.

265. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Georgia UDTPA.

266. As alleged above, Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the Volkswagen and Audi brands that were either false or misleading.

267. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the "defeat device" and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

268. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen’s conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

269. Volkswagen’s fraudulent use of the “defeat device” and its concealment of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the Georgia Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of environmentally friendly vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of environmentally dirty vehicles that conceals its polluting engines rather than promptly remedying them.

270. Plaintiffs and the Georgia Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen’s misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information.

271. Volkswagen had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen and Audi customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive acts or practices under the Georgia UDTPA. All owners of Affected Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of diminished value of their vehicles as a result of Volkswagen’s deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of Volkswagen’s business.

272. Volkswagen’s violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen’s unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

273. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the Georgia UDTPA, Plaintiffs and the Georgia Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

274. Plaintiffs seek an order enjoining Volkswagen's unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Georgia UDTPA per GA. CODE. ANN § 10-1-373.

COUNT III

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

275. Plaintiff realleges and incorporates by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

276. This claim is brought on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

277. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as "CleanDiesel," or to their engines as "TDI Clean Diesel" engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles' emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen's deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

278. Plaintiffs and Class members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen's false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen's representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiffs and Class members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen's deception on their own.

279. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen – one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air law, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiffs and Class members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 18, 2015 article, “It’s just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. That’s just a whole other level of not only lying to the government, but also lying to your consumer. People buy diesel cars from Volkswagen because they feel they are clean diesel cars.” In the words of Ms. Shah, which no doubt reflect the sentiments of all other “CleanDiesel” vehicle buyers, “I don’t want to be spewing noxious gases into the environment.”

280. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable law and regulations. Volkswagen’s false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

281. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the vehicles at issue because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs or Class members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiffs, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and Class members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and Class members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this – except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

282. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not or could not comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand's image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class members.

283. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

284. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly “clean” diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiffs' and Class Members' actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or Class members.

285. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and Class members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen's concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles' emissions and Volkswagen's failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of hundreds of thousands of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues engendered by Volkswagen's corporate policies. Had Plaintiffs and Class members been aware of Volkswagen's emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company's callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations, Plaintiffs and Class members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

286. The value of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen's fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiffs' and Class members' vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

287. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and Class members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

288. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and Class members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. To the extent permitted under applicable law Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

COUNT IV

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Georgia Law)

289. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

290. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Georgia Subclass.

291. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Georgia Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Georgia Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Georgia Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

292. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Georgia Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

293. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Georgia Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

H. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Illinois Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF ILLINOIS CONSUMER FRAUD AND DECEPTIVE BUSINESS PRACTICES ACT
(815 ILCS 505/1, et seq. and 720 ILCS 295/1A)

294. Plaintiff David Mann (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Illinois Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

295. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

296. Volkswagen is a “person” as that term is defined in 815 ILCS 505/1(c).

297. Plaintiff and the Illinois Subclass are “consumers” as that term is defined in 815 ILCS 505/1(e).

298. The Illinois Consumer Fraud and Deceptive Business Practices Act (“Illinois CFA”) prohibits “unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including but not limited to the use or employment of any deception, fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation or the concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact, with intent that others rely upon the concealment, suppression or omission of such material fact ... in the conduct of trade or commerce ... whether any person has in fact been misled, deceived or damaged thereby.” 815 ILCS 505/2.

299. Volkswagen participated in misleading, false, or deceptive acts that violated the Illinois CFA. By fraudulently installing the “defeat device” to make it appear that its CleanDiesel engine systems complied with EPA regulations, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Illinois CFA.

300. In the course of its business, Volkswagen installed the “defeat device” and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations as described herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

301. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true nature of its CleanDiesel engine system for at least six years, but concealed all of that information until recently.

302. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen concealed this information as well.

303. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in unfair and deceptive business practices in violation of the Illinois CFA.

304. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

305. Volkswagen's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen and Audi brands, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

306. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass.

307. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Illinois CFA.

308. As alleged above, Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the Volkswagen and Audi brands that were either false or misleading.

309. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the use of the "defeat device" and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

310. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen’s conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

311. Volkswagen’s fraudulent use of the “defeat device” and its concealment of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of environmentally friendly vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of environmentally dirty vehicles that conceals its polluting engines rather than promptly remedying them.

312. Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen’s misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information.

313. Volkswagen had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen and Audi customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive acts or practices under the Illinois CFA. All owners of Affected Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of Volkswagen’s deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of Volkswagen’s business.

314. Volkswagen’s violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen’s unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

315. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the Illinois CFA, Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

316. Pursuant to 815 ILCS 505/10a(a), Plaintiffs and the Illinois Subclass seek monetary relief against Volkswagen in the amount of actual damages, as well as punitive damages because Volkswagen acted with fraud and/or malice and/or was grossly negligent.

317. Plaintiffs also seek an order enjoining Volkswagen's unfair and/or deceptive acts or practices, punitive damages, and attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under 815 ILCS § 505/1 et seq.

COUNT II

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

318. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

319. This claim is brought on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

320. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as "Clean Diesel," or to their engines as "TDI Clean Diesel" engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles' emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. 326. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

327. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly “clean” diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. COUNT III

BREACH OF CONTRACT
(Based on Illinois Law)

332. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

333. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Illinois Subclass.

334. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Illinois Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. I. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Kentucky Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF THE KENTUCKY CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(KY. REV. STAT. § 367.110, et seq.)

337. Plaintiff Joshua Miller ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Kentucky Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

338. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Kentucky Subclass.

339. Volkswagen, Plaintiffs, and the Kentucky Subclass are "persons" within the meaning of the KY. REV. STAT. § 367.110(1).

340. Volkswagen engaged in "trade" or "commerce" within the meaning of KY. REV. STAT. § 367.110(2).

341. The Kentucky Consumer Protection Act ("Kentucky CPA") makes unlawful "[u]nfair, false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce" KY. REV. STAT. § 367.170(1). Volkswagen both participated in misleading, false, or deceptive acts that violated the Kentucky CPA. By fraudulently installing the "defeat device" to make it appear that its CleanDiesel engine systems complied with EPA regulations, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Kentucky CPA.

342. In the course of its business, Volkswagen installed the "defeat device" and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations as described herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

343. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true nature of its CleanDiesel engine system for at least six years, but concealed all of that information until recently.

344. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen concealed this information as well.

345. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Kentucky CPA.

346. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

347. Volkswagen's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen and Audi brands, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

348. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Kentucky Subclass.

349. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Kentucky CPA.

350. Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the Volkswagen and Audi brands that were either false or misleading.

351. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the "defeat device" and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

352. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen’s conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

353. Volkswagen’s fraudulent use of the “defeat device” and its concealment of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the Kentucky Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of environmentally friendly vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable manufacturer of environmentally dirty vehicles that conceals its polluting engines rather than promptly remedying them.

354. Plaintiffs and the Kentucky Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen’s misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information.

355. Volkswagen had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen and Audi customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive acts or practices under the Kentucky CPA. All owners of Affected Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of Volkswagen’s deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of Volkswagen’s business

356. Volkswagen’s violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen’s unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

357. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the Kentucky CPA, Plaintiffs and the Kentucky Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

358. Pursuant to KY. REV. STAT. ANN. § 367.220, Plaintiffs and the Kentucky Subclass seek to recover actual damages in an amount to be determined at trial; an order enjoining Volkswagen's unfair, unlawful, and/or deceptive practices; declaratory relief; attorneys' fees; and any other just and proper relief available under KY. REV. STAT. ANN. § 367.220.

COUNT II

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

359. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

360. This claim is brought on behalf of the Kentucky Subclass.

361. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as "Clean Diesel," or to their engines as "TDI Clean Diesel" engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles' emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen's deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

362. Plaintiffs and Class members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen's false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen's representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiffs and Class members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen's deception on their own.

363. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen – one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air law, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiffs and Class members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 18, 2015 article, "It's just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. That's just a whole other level of not only lying to the government, but also lying to your consumer. People buy diesel cars from Volkswagen because they feel they are clean diesel cars." In the words of Ms. Shah, which no doubt reflect the sentiments of all other "CleanDiesel" vehicle buyers, "I don't want to be spewing noxious gases into the environment."

364. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable law and regulations. Volkswagen's false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

365. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the vehicles at issue because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs or Class members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiffs, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and Class members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and Class members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this – except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

366. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not or could not comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand’s image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class members.

367. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

368. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly “clean” diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiffs’ and Class Members’ actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or Class members.

369. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and Class members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen’s concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles’ emissions and Volkswagen’s failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of hundreds of thousands of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues engendered by Volkswagen's corporate policies. Had Plaintiffs and Class members been aware of Volkswagen's emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company's callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations, Plaintiffs and Class members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

370. The value of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen's fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiffs' and Class members' vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

371. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and Class members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

372. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and Class members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. To the extent permitted under applicable law, Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

COUNT III

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Kentucky Law)

373. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

374. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Kentucky Subclass.

375. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Kentucky Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Kentucky Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Kentucky Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

376. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Kentucky Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

377. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Kentucky Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

J. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Maine Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF MAINE UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(ME. REV. STAT. ANN. TIT. 5 § 205-A, et seq.)

378. Plaintiff Susan Wall (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Maine Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

379. Plaintiff intends to assert a claim under the Maine Unfair Trade Practices Act (“Maine UTPA”) which makes unlawful “[u]nfair methods of competition and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce....” ME. REV. STAT. ANN. TIT. 5 § 207. Plaintiffs will make a demand in satisfaction of ME. REV. STAT. ANN. TIT. 5, § 213(A), and may amend this Complaint to assert claims under the Maine UTPA once the required 30 days have elapsed. This paragraph is included for purposes of notice only and is not intended to actually assert a claim under the Maine UTPA.

COUNT II

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

380. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

381. This claim is brought on behalf of the Maine Subclass.

382. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as “Clean Diesel,” or to their engines as “TDI Clean Diesel” engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles’ emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen's deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

383. Plaintiffs and Class members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen's false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen's representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiffs and Class members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen's deception on their own.

384. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen – one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air law, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiffs and Class members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 18, 2015 article, “It’s just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. That’s just a whole other level of not only lying to the government, but also lying to your consumer. People buy diesel cars from Volkswagen because they feel they are clean diesel cars.” In the words of Ms. Shah, which no doubt reflect the sentiments of all other “CleanDiesel” vehicle buyers, “I don’t want to be spewing noxious gases into the environment.”

385. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable law and regulations. Volkswagen's false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

386. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the vehicles at issue because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs or Class members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiffs, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and Class members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and Class members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this—except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

387. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not, or could not, comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand's image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class members.

388. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

389. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly "clean" diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiffs' and Class Members' actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or Class members.

390. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and Class members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen's concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles' emissions and Volkswagen's failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of hundreds of thousands of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues engendered by Volkswagen's corporate policies. Had Plaintiffs and Class members been aware of Volkswagen's emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company's callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations, Plaintiffs and Class members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

391. The value of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen's fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiffs' and Class members' vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

392. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and Class members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

393. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and Class members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. To the extent permitted under applicable law Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

COUNT III

BREACH OF CONTRACT (Based on Maine Law)

394. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

395. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Maine Subclass.

396. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Maine Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Maine Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Maine Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

397. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Maine Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected

Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

398. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Maine Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

K. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Massachusetts Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATIONS OF THE MASSACHUSETTS CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT
(MASS. GEN. LAWS CH. 93A)

399. Plaintiff Carl Johnson ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Massachusetts Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

400. Plaintiff intends to assert a claim under the Massachusetts Consumer Protection Act ("MCPA"), which makes it unlawful to engage in any "[u]nfair methods of competition or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any trade or commerce." MASS. GEN. LAWS CH. 93A, § 2(1). Plaintiffs will make a demand in satisfaction of MASS. GEN. LAWS CH. 93A, § 9(3), and may amend this Complaint to assert claims under the MCPA once the required 30 days have elapsed. This paragraph is included for purposes of notice only and is not intended to actually assert a claim under the MCPA.

COUNT II

BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS LAW)

401. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

402. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Massachusetts Subclass.

403. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Massachusetts Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Massachusetts Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Massachusetts Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

404. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Massachusetts Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

405. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Massachusetts Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT III
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT
(BASED ON MASSACHUSETTS LAW)

406. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

407. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Massachusetts Subclass.

408. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a “defeat device,” or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

409. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

410. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

411. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

412. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

413. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

414. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle.

Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

415. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s reputation – along with Volkswagen’s failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system and Volkswagen’s affirmative assurance that its Affected Vehicles were safe and reliable, and other similar false statements – in purchasing or leasing Volkswagen’s Affected Vehicles.

416. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Affected Vehicles.

417. Volkswagen’s conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

L. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Minnesota Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF MINNESOTA PREVENTION OF CONSUMER FRAUD ACT

(MINN. STAT. § 325F.68, et seq.)

418. Plaintiff Alexander Laskovski (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all Minnesota Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

419. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

420. The Affected Vehicles constitute “merchandise” within the meaning of MINN. STAT. § 325F.68(2).

421. The Minnesota Prevention of Consumer Fraud Act (“Minnesota CFA”) prohibits “[t]he act, use, or employment by any person of any fraud, false pretense, false promise, misrepresentation, misleading statement or deceptive practice, with the intent that others rely thereon in connection with the sale of any merchandise, whether or not any person has in fact been misled, deceived, or damaged thereby . . .” MINN. STAT. § 325F.69(1). Volkswagen participated in misleading, false, or deceptive acts that violated the Minnesota CFA. By fraudulently installing the “defeat device” to make it appear that its CleanDiesel engine systems complied with EPA regulations, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Minnesota CFA.

422. Volkswagen’s actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

423. In the course of its business, Volkswagen installed the “defeat device” and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations as described herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

424. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true nature of its CleanDiesel engine system for at least six years, but concealed all of that information until recently.

425. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen concealed this information as well.

426. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Minnesota CFA.

427. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they were on the road.

428. Volkswagen's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to, and did in fact, deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen and Audi brands, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

429. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass.

430. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Minnesota CFA.

431. As alleged above, Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the Volkswagen and Audi brands that were either false or misleading.

432. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the use of the "defeat device" and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

433. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen’s conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

434. Volkswagen’s fraudulent use of the “defeat device” and its concealment of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of environmentally friendly vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable and dishonest manufacturer of polluting vehicles that conceals the amount its cars pollutes rather than make environmentally friendly vehicles.

435. Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen’s misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information.

436. Volkswagen had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen and Audi customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive acts or practices under the Minnesota CFA. All owners of Affected Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of Volkswagen’s deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of Volkswagen’s business.

437. Volkswagen's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

438. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the Minnesota CFA, Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

439. Pursuant to MINN. STAT. § 8.31(3a), Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass seek actual damages, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota CFA.

440. Plaintiffs also seek punitive damages under MINN. STAT. § 549.20(1)(a) given the clear and convincing evidence that Volkswagen's acts show deliberate disregard for the rights or safety of others.

COUNT II

VIOLATION OF MINNESOTA UNIFORM DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT

(MINN. STAT. § 325D.43-48, et seq.)

441. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

442. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

443. The Minnesota Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Minnesota DTPA") prohibits deceptive trade practices, which occur when a person "(5) represents that goods or services have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have or that a person has a sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation, or connection that the person does not have;" "(7) represents that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another;" and "(9) advertises goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised.” MINN. STAT. § 325D.44. In the course of the Volkswagen’s business, it installed the “defeat device” and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations and engaged in deceptive practices by representing that Affected Vehicles have sponsorship, approval, characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, or that goods are of a particular style or model, if they are of another; and advertising Affected Vehicles with intent not to sell them as advertised. Volkswagen participated in misleading, false, or deceptive acts that violated the Minnesota DTPA. By fraudulently installing the “defeat device” to make it appear that its CleanDiesel engine systems complied with EPA regulations, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the Minnesota DTPA.

444. Volkswagen’s actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

445. In the course of its business, Volkswagen installed the “defeat device” and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations as described herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

446. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true nature of its CleanDiesel engine system for at least six years, but concealed all of that information until recently.

447. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen concealed this information as well.

448. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Minnesota DTPA.

449. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

450. Volkswagen’s unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen brand, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

451. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass.

452. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Minnesota DTPA.

453. As alleged above, Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles that were either false or misleading.

454. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the use of the “defeat device” and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

455. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen’s conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

456. Volkswagen’s fraudulent use of the “defeat device” and its concealment of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of safe vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable and dishonest manufacturer of polluting vehicles that conceals the amount its cars pollutes rather than make environmentally friendly vehicles.

457. Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen's misrepresentations and its failure to disclose material information. Had they been aware of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system, and the company's callous disregard for environmental laws and regulations, Plaintiffs either would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all. Plaintiffs did not receive the benefit of their bargain as a result of Volkswagen's misconduct.

458. Volkswagen's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

459. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the Minnesota DTPA, Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

460. Pursuant to MINN. STAT. § 8.31(3a) and 325D.45, Plaintiffs and the Minnesota Subclass seek actual damages, attorneys' fees, and any other just and proper relief available under the Minnesota DTPA.

461. Plaintiffs also seek punitive damages under MINN. STAT. § 549.20(1)(a) give the clear and convincing evidence that Volkswagen's acts show deliberate disregard for the rights or safety of others.

COUNT III

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

462. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

463. This claim is brought on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

464. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as “Clean Diesel,” or to their engines as “TDI Clean Diesel” engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles’ emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen’s deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

465. Plaintiffs and Class members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen’s false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen’s representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiffs and Class members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen’s deception on their own.

466. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen—one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air law, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiffs and Class members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 18, 2015 article, “It’s just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. That’s just a whole other level of not only lying to the government, but also lying to your consumer. People buy diesel cars from Volkswagen because they feel they are clean diesel cars.” In the words of Ms. Shah, which no doubt reflect the sentiments of all other “CleanDiesel” vehicle buyers, “I don’t want to be spewing noxious gases into the environment.”

467. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable law and regulations. Volkswagen’s false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

468. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the vehicles at issue because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs or Class members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiffs, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and Class members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and Class members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this—except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

469. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not or could not comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand's image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class members.

470. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

471. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly "clean" diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiffs' and Class Members' actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or Class members.

472. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and Class members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen's concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles' emissions and Volkswagen's failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of hundreds of thousands of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues engendered by Volkswagen's corporate policies. Had Plaintiffs and Class members been aware of Volkswagen's emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company's callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations, Plaintiffs and Class members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

473. The value of Plaintiffs' and Class Members' vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen's fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiffs' and Class members' vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

474. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and Class members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

475. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and Class members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. To the extent permitted under applicable law Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

COUNT IV
BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON MINNESOTA LAW)

476. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

477. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Minnesota Subclass.

478. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Minnesota Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Minnesota Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Minnesota Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

479. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Minnesota Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

480. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Minnesota Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

M. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Missouri Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF MISSOURI MERCHANDISING PRACTICES ACT

(MO. REV. STAT. § 407.010, et seq.)

481. Plaintiff Charles Hall ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Missouri Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

482. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Missouri Subclass.

483. Volkswagen, Plaintiffs and the Missouri Subclass are "persons" within the meaning of MO. REV. STAT. § 407.010(5).

484. Volkswagen engaged in “trade” or “commerce” in the State of Missouri within the meaning of MO. REV. STAT. § 407.010(7).

485. The Missouri Merchandising Practices Act (“Missouri MPA”) makes unlawful the “act, use or employment by any person of any deception, fraud, false pretense, misrepresentation, unfair practice, or the concealment, suppression, or omission of any material fact in connection with the sale or advertisement of any merchandise.” MO. REV. STAT. § 407.020.

486. In the course of its business, Volkswagen environmental laws and regulations and, omitted, suppressed, and concealed its use of the “defeat device” as described herein. By failing to disclose these defects or facts about the defects described herein known to it or that were available to Volkswagen upon reasonable inquiry, Volkswagen deprived consumers of all material facts about the safety and functionality of their vehicle. By failing to release material facts about the defect, Volkswagen curtailed or reduced the ability of consumers to take notice of material facts about their vehicle, and/or it affirmatively operated to hide or keep those facts from consumers. 15 MO. CODE OF SERV. REG. § 60-9.110. Moreover, Volkswagen has otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, unfair practices, and/or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

487. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true characteristics of its CleanDiesel engine system, but suppressed and/or concealed all of that information until recently.

488. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen omitted, suppressed, and/or concealed this information as well.

489. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing, suppressing, or omitting the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in unfair and/or deceptive business practices and concealed, suppressed, and/or omitted material facts from consumers in connection with the purchase of their vehicles – all in violation of the Missouri MPA.

490. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed, suppressed, and omitted the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

491. Volkswagen’s unfair or deceptive acts or practices, including these concealments, omissions, and suppressions of material facts, had a tendency or capacity to mislead, tended to create a false impression in consumers, and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen and Audi brands, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

492. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Missouri Subclass, including without limitation by failing to disclose the “defeat device” in light of circumstances under which the omitted facts were necessary in order to correct the assumptions, inferences or representations being made by Volkswagen about the safety, efficiency, cleanliness or reliability of its vehicles. Consequently, the failure to disclose such facts amounts to misleading statements pursuant to 15 MO. CODE OF SERV. REG. § 60-9.090.

493. Because Volkswagen knew or believed that its statements regarding cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of its vehicles were not in accord with the facts and/or had no reasonable basis for such statements in light of its knowledge of these defects, Volkswagen engaged in fraudulent misrepresentations pursuant to 15 MO. CODE OF SERV. REG. 60-9.100.

494. Volkswagen’s conduct as described herein is unethical, oppressive, or unscrupulous and/or it presented a risk of substantial injury to consumers whose vehicles were operating illegally and under circumstances that rendered them unsafe. Such acts are unfair practices in violation of 15 MO. CODE OF SERV. REG. 60-8.020.

495. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Missouri MPA.

496. As alleged above, Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles that were either false, misleading, and/or half-truths in violation of the Missouri MPA.

497. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the use of the “defeat device” and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

498. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, and committed these other unlawful acts in violation of the Missouri MPA, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen’s conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

499. Volkswagen’s misleading statements, deception, and/or concealment, suppression, or omission of the “defeat device” and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the Missouri Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of environmentally friendly vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable and dishonest manufacturer of polluting vehicles that conceals the amount its cars pollutes rather than make environmentally friendly vehicles.

500. Plaintiffs and the Missouri Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information.

501. Volkswagen had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen and Audi customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive acts or practices under the Missouri MPA. All owners of Affected Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of Volkswagen's deceptive and unfair acts and practices made in the course of Volkswagen's business.

502. Volkswagen's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

503. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the Missouri MPA, Plaintiffs and the Missouri Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

504. Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and the Missouri Subclass for damages in amounts to be proven at trial, including attorneys' fees, costs, and punitive damages, as well as injunctive relief enjoining Volkswagen's unfair and deceptive practices, and any other just and proper relief under MO. REV. STAT. § 407.025.

COUNT II

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

505. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

506. This claim is brought on behalf of the Missouri Subclass.

507. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the

COUNT III
BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON MISSOURI LAW)

519. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

520. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Missouri Subclass.

521. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Missouri Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. N. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Nevada Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF THE NEVADA DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT

(NEV. REV. STAT. § 598.0903, et seq.)

524. Plaintiff Rebecca Perlmutter ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Nevada Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

525. This claim is brought only on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

526. The Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act ("Nevada DTPA"), NEV. REV. STAT. § 598.0903, et seq. prohibits deceptive trade practices. NEV. REV. STAT. § 598.0915 provides that a person engages in a "deceptive trade practice" if, in the course of business or occupation, the person: "5. Knowingly makes a false representation as to the characteristics, ingredients, uses, benefits, alterations or quantities of goods or services for sale or lease or a false representation as to the sponsorship, approval, status, affiliation or connection of a person therewith"; "7. Represents that goods or services for sale or lease are of a particular standard, quality or grade, or that such goods are of a particular style or model, if he or she knows or should know that they are of another standard, quality, grade, style or model"; "9. Advertises goods or services with intent not to sell or lease them as advertised”; or “15. Knowingly makes any other false representation in a transaction.”

527. Volkswagen engaged in deceptive trade practices that violated the Nevada DTPA, including: knowingly representing that Affected Vehicles have uses and benefits which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell or lease them as advertised; representing that the subject of a transaction involving Affected Vehicles has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not; and knowingly making other false representations in a transaction.

528. Volkswagen’s actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

529. In the course of its business, Volkswagen installed the “defeat device” and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations as described herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

530. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true nature of its CleanDiesel engine system for at least six years, but concealed all of that information until recently.

531. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen concealed this information as well.

532. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices in violation of the Nevada DTPA.

533. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

534. Volkswagen’s unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen and Audi brands, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

535. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the Nevada Subclass.

536. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the Nevada DTPA.

537. As alleged above, Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the Volkswagen and Audi brands that were either false or misleading.

538. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the use of the “defeat device” and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

539. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen’s conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

540. Volkswagen’s fraudulent use of the “defeat device” and its concealment of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the Nevada Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of environmentally friendly vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable and dishonest manufacturer of polluting vehicles that conceals the amount its cars pollutes rather than make environmentally friendly vehicles.

541. Plaintiffs and the Nevada Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information.

542. Volkswagen had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen and Audi customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive acts or practices under the Nevada DTPA. All owners of Affected Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of Volkswagen's deceptive and unfair acts and practices that occurred in the course of Volkswagen's business.

543. Volkswagen's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

544. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the Nevada DTPA, Plaintiffs and the Nevada Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

545. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the Nevada Subclass seek their actual damages, punitive damages, an order enjoining Volkswagen's deceptive acts or practices, costs of Court, attorney's fees, and all other appropriate and available remedies under the Nevada Deceptive Trade Practices Act. NEV. REV. STAT. § 41.600.

COUNT II

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

546. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

547. This claim is brought on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

548. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as “Clean Diesel,” or to their engines as “TDI Clean Diesel” engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles’ emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen’s deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

549. Plaintiffs and Class members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen’s false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen’s representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiffs and Class members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen’s deception on their own.

550. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen—one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air law, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiffs and Class members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 18, 2015 article, “It’s just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. That's just a whole other level of not only lying to the government, but also lying to your consumer. People buy diesel cars from Volkswagen because they feel they are clean diesel cars." In the words of Ms. Shah, which no doubt reflect the sentiments of all other "CleanDiesel" vehicle buyers, "I don't want to be spewing noxious gases into the environment."

551. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable law and regulations. Volkswagen's false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

552. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the vehicles at issue because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs or Class members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiffs, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and Class members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air law and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and Class members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this—except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

553. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not or could not comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand's image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class members.

554. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

555. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly “clean” diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiffs’ and Class Members’ actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or Class members.

556. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and Class members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen’s concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles’ emissions and Volkswagen’s failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of hundreds of thousands of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues engendered by Volkswagen’s corporate policies. Had Plaintiffs and Class members been aware of Volkswagen’s emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company’s callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state law and regulations, Plaintiffs and Class members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

557. The value of Plaintiffs’ and Class Members’ vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen’s fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiffs’ and Class members’ vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

558. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and Class members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

559. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and Class members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. To the extent permitted under applicable law Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

COUNT III
BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON NEVADA LAW)

560. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

561. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Nevada Subclass.

562. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Nevada Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Nevada Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Nevada Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

563. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Nevada Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen, rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

564. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Nevada Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

O. Claims on Behalf of the New Hampshire Subclass

COUNT I

VIOLATION OF N.H. CONSUMER PROTECTION ACT

(N.H. REV. STAT. ANN. § 358-A:1, et seq.)

565. Plaintiff Joe Harrison ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all New Hampshire Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

566. This claim is brought only on behalf of the New Hampshire Subclass.

567. Plaintiffs, the New Hampshire Subclass, and Volkswagen are "persons" under the New Hampshire Consumer Protection Act ("New Hampshire CPA"), N.H. REV. STAT. § 358-A:1.

568. Volkswagen's actions as set forth herein occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce as defined under N.H. REV. STAT. § 358-A:1.

569. The New Hampshire CPA prohibits a person, in the conduct of any trade or commerce, from using “any unfair or deceptive act or practice,” including “but ... not limited to, the following: ... (V) Representing that goods or services have ... characteristics, ... uses, benefits, or quantities that they do not have;” “(VII) Representing that goods or services are of a particular standard, quality, or grade, ... if they are of another;” and “(IX) Advertising goods or services with intent not to sell them as advertised.” N.H. REV. STAT. § 358-A:2.

570. Volkswagen participated in unfair or deceptive acts or practices that violated the New Hampshire CPA as described above and below. By fraudulently installing the “defeat device” to make it appear that its CleanDiesel engine systems complied with EPA regulations, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the CPA, including representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell or lease them as advertised; representing that the subject of a transaction involving Affected Vehicles has been supplied in accordance with a previous representation when it has not; and engaging in other unconscionable, false, misleading, or deceptive acts or practices in the conduct of trade or commerce.

571. In the course of its business, Volkswagen installed the “defeat device” and concealed that its CleanDiesel systems failed EPA regulations as described herein and otherwise engaged in activities with a tendency or capacity to deceive. Volkswagen also engaged in unlawful trade practices by employing deception, deceptive acts or practices, fraud, misrepresentations, or concealment, suppression or omission of any material fact with intent that others rely upon such concealment, suppression or omission, in connection with the sale of Affected Vehicles.

572. Volkswagen has known of its use of the “defeat device” and the true nature of its CleanDiesel engine system for at least six years, but concealed all of that information until recently.

573. Volkswagen was also aware that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations. Volkswagen concealed this information as well.

574. By failing to disclose and by actively concealing the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, by marketing its vehicles as safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by presenting itself as a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles after they were sold, Volkswagen engaged in unfair and deceptive business practices in violation of the New Hampshire CPA.

575. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed the use of the “defeat device” and true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system and serious defects discussed above. Volkswagen compounded the deception by repeatedly asserting that the Affected Vehicles were safe, reliable, environmentally clean, efficient, and of high quality, and by claiming to be a reputable manufacturer that valued safety, environmental cleanliness and efficiency, and stood behind its vehicles once they are on the road.

576. Volkswagen’s unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to and did in fact deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiffs, about the true cleanliness and efficiency of the CleanDiesel engine system, the quality of the Volkswagen and Audi brands, the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, and the true value of the Affected Vehicles.

577. Volkswagen intentionally and knowingly misrepresented material facts regarding the Affected Vehicles with an intent to mislead Plaintiffs and the New Hampshire Subclass.

578. Volkswagen knew or should have known that its conduct violated the New Hampshire CPA.

579. As alleged above, Volkswagen made material statements about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the Volkswagen and Audi brands that were either false or misleading.

580. Volkswagen owed Plaintiffs a duty to disclose the true safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles and the devaluing of environmental cleanliness and integrity at Volkswagen, because Volkswagen:

- a. Possessed exclusive knowledge that it valued profits over environmental cleanliness, efficiency, and lawfulness, and that it was manufacturing, selling and distributing vehicles throughout the United States that did not comply with EPA regulations;
- b. Intentionally concealed the foregoing from Plaintiffs; and/or
- c. Made incomplete representations about the safety, cleanliness, efficiency and reliability of the Affected Vehicles generally, and the use of the “defeat device” and true nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in particular, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiffs that contradicted these representations.

581. Because Volkswagen fraudulently concealed the “defeat device” and the true cleanliness and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system, resulting in a raft of negative publicity once the use of the “defeat device” and true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system finally began to be disclosed, the value of the Affected Vehicles has greatly diminished. In light of the stigma attached to those vehicles by Volkswagen's conduct, they are now worth significantly less than they otherwise would be.

582. Volkswagen's fraudulent use of the "defeat device" and its concealment of the true characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system were material to Plaintiffs and the New Hampshire Subclass. A vehicle made by a reputable manufacturer of environmentally friendly vehicles is worth more than an otherwise comparable vehicle made by a disreputable and dishonest manufacturer of polluting vehicles that conceals the amount its cars pollutes rather than make environmentally friendly vehicles.

583. Plaintiffs and the New Hampshire Subclass suffered ascertainable loss caused by Volkswagen's misrepresentations and its concealment of and failure to disclose material information.

584. Volkswagen had an ongoing duty to all Volkswagen and Audi customers to refrain from unfair and deceptive acts or practices under the New Hampshire CPA. All owners of Affected Vehicles suffered ascertainable loss in the form of the diminished value of their vehicles as a result of Volkswagen's deceptive and unfair acts and practices that occurred in the course of Volkswagen's business.

585. Volkswagen's violations present a continuing risk to Plaintiffs as well as to the general public. Volkswagen's unlawful acts and practices complained of herein affect the public interest.

586. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's violations of the New Hampshire CPA, Plaintiffs and the New Hampshire Subclass have suffered injury-in-fact and/or actual damage.

587. Because Volkswagen's willful conduct caused injury to New Hampshire Subclass members' property through violations of the New Hampshire CPA, the New Hampshire Subclass seeks recovery of actual damages or $1,000, whichever is greater, treble damages, costs and reasonable attorneys' fees, an order enjoining Volkswagen's unfair and/or deceptive acts and practices, and any other just and proper relief under N.H. REV. STAT. § 358-A:10.

COUNT II

FRAUD BY CONCEALMENT

588. Plaintiffs reallege and incorporate by reference all paragraphs as though fully set forth herein.

589. This claim is brought on behalf of the New Hampshire Subclass.

590. Volkswagen intentionally concealed and suppressed material facts concerning the quality of the Affected Vehicles. As alleged in this Complaint, notwithstanding references in the very model names of the subject vehicles as "Clean Diesel," or to their engines as "TDI Clean Diesel" engines, Volkswagen engaged in a secret scheme to evade federal and state vehicle emissions standards by installing software designed to conceal its vehicles' emissions of the pollutant nitrogen oxide, which contributes to the creation of ozone and smog. The software installed on the vehicles at issue was designed nefariously to kick-in during emissions certification testing, such that the vehicles would show far lower emissions than when actually operating on the road. The result was what Volkswagen intended: vehicles passed emissions certifications by way of deliberately induced false readings. Reportedly, Volkswagen's deliberate, secret scheme resulted in noxious emissions from these vehicles at 40 times applicable standards.

591. Plaintiffs and Class members reasonably relied upon Volkswagen's false representations. They had no way of knowing that Volkswagen's representations were false and gravely misleading. As alleged herein, Volkswagen employed extremely sophisticated methods of deception. Plaintiffs and Class members did not, and could not, unravel Volkswagen's deception on their own.

592. Volkswagen concealed and suppressed material facts concerning what is evidently the true culture of Volkswagen—one characterized by an emphasis on profits and sales above compliance with federal and state clean air laws, and emissions regulations that are meant to protect the public and consumers. It also emphasized profits and sales about the trust that Plaintiffs and Class members placed in its representations. As one customer, Priya Shah, put it in a quotation cited by the Los Angeles Times in a September 18, 2015 article, “It’s just a blatant disregard and intentional manipulation of the system. 593. Necessarily, Volkswagen also took steps to ensure that its employees did not reveal the details of its scheme to regulators or consumers, including Plaintiffs and Class members. Volkswagen did so in order to boost the reputations of its vehicles and to falsely assure purchasers and lessors of its vehicles, including certified previously owned vehicles, that Volkswagen is a reputable manufacturer that complies with applicable law, including federal and state clean air laws and emissions regulations, and that its vehicles likewise comply with applicable laws and regulations. Volkswagen’s false representations were material to consumers, both because they concerned the quality of the affected vehicles, including their compliance with applicable federal and state laws and regulations regarding clean air and emissions, and also because the representations played a significant role in the value of the vehicles. As Volkswagen well knew, its customers, including Plaintiffs and Class members, highly valued that the vehicles they were purchasing or leasing were clean diesel cars, and they paid accordingly.

594. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose the emissions scheme it engaged in with respect to the vehicles at issue because knowledge of the scheme and its details were known and/or accessible only to Volkswagen, because Volkswagen had exclusive knowledge as to implementation and maintenance of its scheme, and because Volkswagen knew the facts were not known to or reasonably discoverable by Plaintiffs or Class members. Volkswagen also had a duty to disclose because it made general affirmative representations about the qualities of its vehicles with respect to emissions standards, starting with references to them as clean diesel cars, or cars with clean diesel engines, which were misleading, deceptive, and incomplete without the disclosure of the additional facts set forth above regarding its emissions scheme, the actual emissions of its vehicles, its actual philosophy with respect to compliance with federal and state clean air laws and emissions regulations, and its actual practices with respect to the vehicles at issue. Having volunteered to provide information to Plaintiffs, Volkswagen had the duty to disclose not just the partial truth, but the entire truth. These omitted and concealed facts were material because they directly impact the value of the Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and Class members. Whether a manufacturer's products comply with federal and state clean air laws and emissions regulations, and whether that manufacturer tells the truth with respect to such compliance or non-compliance, are material concerns to a consumer, including with respect to the emissions certifications testing their vehicles must pass. Volkswagen represented to Plaintiffs and Class members that they were purchasing clean diesel vehicles, and certification testing appeared to confirm this—except that, secretly, Volkswagen had subverted the testing process thoroughly.

595. Volkswagen actively concealed and/or suppressed these material facts, in whole or in part, to pad and protect its profits and to avoid the perception that its vehicles did not or could not comply with federal and state laws governing clean air and emissions, which perception would hurt the brand's image and cost Volkswagen money, and it did so at the expense of Plaintiffs and Class members.

596. On information and belief, Volkswagen has still not made full and adequate disclosures, and continues to defraud Plaintiffs and Class members by concealing material information regarding the emission qualities of its referenced vehicles and its emissions scheme.

597. Plaintiffs and Class members were unaware of the omitted material facts referenced herein, and they would not have acted as they did if they had known of the concealed and/or suppressed facts, in that they would not have purchased purportedly “clean” diesel cars manufactured by Volkswagen, and/or would not have continued to drive their heavily polluting vehicles, or would have taken other affirmative steps in light of the information concealed from them. Plaintiffs' and Class members' actions were justified. Volkswagen was in exclusive control of the material facts, and such facts were not known to the public, Plaintiffs, or Class members.

598. Because of the concealment and/or suppression of the facts, Plaintiffs and Class members have sustained damage because they own vehicles that are diminished in value as a result of Volkswagen's concealment of the true quality and quantity of those vehicles' emissions and Volkswagen's failure to timely disclose the actual emission qualities and quantities of hundreds of thousands of Volkswagen- and Audi-branded vehicles and the serious issues

Had Plaintiffs and Class members been aware of Volkswagen's emissions schemes with regard to the vehicles at issue, and the company's callous disregard for compliance with applicable federal and state laws and regulations, Plaintiffs and Class members who purchased or leased new or certified previously owned vehicles would have paid less for their vehicles or would not have purchased or leased them at all.

599. The value of Plaintiffs' and Class members' vehicles has diminished as a result of Volkswagen's fraudulent concealment of its emissions scheme, which has greatly tarnished the Volkswagen and Audi brand names attached to Plaintiffs' and Class members' vehicles and made any reasonable consumer reluctant to purchase any of the Affected Vehicles, let alone pay what otherwise would have been fair market value for the vehicles.

600. Accordingly, Volkswagen is liable to Plaintiffs and Class members for damages in an amount to be proven at trial.

601. Volkswagen's acts were done wantonly, maliciously, oppressively, deliberately, with intent to defraud, and in reckless disregard of Plaintiffs' and Class members' rights and the representations that Volkswagen made to them, in order to enrich Volkswagen. To the extent permitted under applicable law, Volkswagen's conduct warrants an assessment of punitive damages in an amount sufficient to deter such conduct in the future, which amount is to be determined according to proof.

COUNT III
BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON NEW HAMPSHIRE LAW)

602. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

603. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the New Hampshire Subclass.

604. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other New Hampshire Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other New Hampshire Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel Engine System and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other New Hampshire Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

605. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other New Hampshire Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

606. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the New Hampshire Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

P. Claims Brought on Behalf of the New York Subclass

COUNT I
VIOLATIONS OF NEW YORK GENERAL BUSINESS LAW § 349
(N.Y. GEN. BUS. LAW § 349)

607. Plaintiff David Sibley (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all New York Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

608. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

609. New York’s General Business Law § 349 makes unlawful “[d]eceptive acts or practices in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce.”

610. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed that the CleanDiesel engine system was non-EPA compliant, and the use of the “defeat device” in Affected Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, Volkswagen engaged in unfair methods of competition, unconscionable acts or practices, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices as defined in N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 349, including representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and otherwise engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

611. Volkswagen’s actions as set forth above occurred in the conduct of trade or commerce.

612. Because Volkswagen’s deception takes place in the context of automobile safety, its deception affects the public interest. Further, Volkswagen’s unlawful conduct constitutes unfair acts or practices that have the capacity to deceive consumers, and that have a broad impact on consumers at large.

613. Volkswagen's conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

614. Plaintiffs and the other Class members were injured as a result of Volkswagen's conduct in that Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Affected Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions.

COUNT II
VIOLATIONS OF NEW YORK GENERAL BUSINESS LAW § 350
(N.Y. GEN. BUS. LAW § 350)

615. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

616. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

617. New York's General Business Law § 350 makes unlawful "[f]alse advertising in the conduct of any business, trade or commerce[.]" False advertising includes "advertising, including labeling, of a commodity ... if such advertising is misleading in a material respect," taking into account "the extent to which the advertising fails to reveal facts material in the light of ... representations [made] with respect to the commodity...." N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 350-a.

618. Volkswagen caused to be made or disseminated throughout New York, through advertising, marketing, and other publications, statements that were untrue or misleading, and which were known, or which by the exercise of reasonable care should have been known to Volkswagen, to be untrue and misleading to consumers, including Plaintiffs and the other Class members.

619. Volkswagen has violated N.Y. Gen. Bus. Law § 350 because the misrepresentations and omissions regarding that the CleanDiesel engine system was non-EPA compliant, and the use of the “defeat device” in Affected Vehicles as described above, as well as the inherently defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system as designed and sold by Volkswagen, were material and likely to deceive a reasonable consumer.

620. Plaintiffs and the other Class members have suffered injury, including the loss of money or property, as a result of Volkswagen’s false advertising. In purchasing or leasing their Affected Vehicles, Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on the misrepresentations and/or omissions of Volkswagen with respect to the safety, quality, functionality, and reliability of the Affected Vehicles. Volkswagen’s representations turned out to be untrue because the CleanDiesel engine system installed in Affected Vehicles did not comply with EPA regulations. Had Plaintiffs and the other Class members known this, they would not have purchased or leased their Affected Vehicles and/or paid as much for them.

621. Accordingly, Plaintiffs and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of the bargain for their Affected Vehicles, which have also suffered diminution in value.

622. Plaintiffs, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, request that this Court enter such orders or judgments as may be necessary to enjoin Volkswagen from continuing its unfair, unlawful and/or deceptive practices. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are also entitled to recover their actual damages or $500, whichever is greater. Because Volkswagen acted willfully or knowingly, Plaintiffs and the other Class members are entitled to recover three times actual damages, up to $10,000.

COUNT III
BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON NEW YORK LAW)

623. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

624. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

625. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other New York Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other New York Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other New York Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

626. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other New York Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

627. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the New York Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT IV
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT
(BASED ON NEW YORK LAW)

628. Plaintiffs incorporate by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

629. Plaintiffs bring this Count on behalf of the New York Subclass.

630. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a “defeat device,” or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiffs and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

631. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiffs in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

632. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

633. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiffs and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

634. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

635. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiffs and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

636. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle.

Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

637. Plaintiffs and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s reputation – along with Volkswagen’s failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system and Volkswagen’s affirmative assurance that its Affected Vehicles were safe and reliable, and complied with environmental regulations – in purchasing or leasing Volkswagen’s Affected Vehicles.

638. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiffs and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Affected Vehicles.

639. Volkswagen’s conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiffs and the other Class members. Plaintiffs and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

Q. Claims Brought on Behalf of the North Carolina Subclass

COUNT I
VIOLATIONS OF THE NORTH CAROLINA UNFAIR
AND DECEPTIVE TRADE PRACTICES ACT
(N.C. GEN. STAT. §§ 75-1.1, et seq.)

640. Plaintiff Matthew Heinly (“Plaintiff,” for purposes of all North Carolina Class Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

641. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Subclass.

642. North Carolina’s Unfair and Deceptive Trade Practices Act, N.C. Gen. Stat. §§ 75-1.1, et seq. (“NCUDTPA”), prohibits a person from engaging in “[u]nfair methods of competition in or affecting commerce, and unfair or deceptive acts or practices in or affecting commerce[.]” The NCUDTPA provides a private right of action for any person injured “by reason of any act or thing done by any other person, firm or corporation in violation of” the NCUDTPA. N.C. Gen. Stat. § 75-16.

643. Volkswagen’s acts and practices complained of herein were performed in the course of Volkswagen’s trade or business and thus occurred in or affected “commerce,” as defined in N.C. Gen. Stat. § 75-1.1(b).

644. In the course of Volkswagen’s business, it willfully failed to disclose and actively concealed that the CleanDiesel Engine System was non-EPA compliant, and the use of the “defeat device” in Affected Vehicles as described above. Accordingly, Volkswagen engaged in unlawful trade practices, including representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have; representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard and quality when they are not; advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised; and otherwise engaging in conduct likely to deceive.

645. Volkswagen's conduct proximately caused injuries to Plaintiff and the other Class members.

646. Volkswagen acted with willful and conscious disregard of the rights and safety of others, subjecting Plaintiff and the other Class members to cruel and unjust hardship as a result, such that an award of punitive damages is appropriate.

647. Plaintiff and the other Class members were injured as a result of Volkswagen's conduct in that Plaintiff and the other Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain, and their Affected Vehicles have suffered a diminution in value. These injuries are the direct and natural consequence of Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions.

648. Plaintiff, individually and on behalf of the other Class members, seeks treble damages pursuant to N.C. Gen. Stat. § 75-16, and an award of attorneys' fees pursuant to N.C. Gen. Stat. § 75-16.1.

COUNT II
BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON NORTH CAROLINA LAW)

649. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

650. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Class.

651. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other North Carolina Class members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other North Carolina Class members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other North Carolina Class members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

652. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other North Carolina Class members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen rendering each Affected Vehicle non EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

653. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the North Carolina Class have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT III
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT
(BASED ON NORTH CAROLINA LAW)

654. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

655. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the North Carolina Class.

656. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a "defeat device," or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

657. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

658. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

659. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

660. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

661. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

662. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle.

Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

663. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen's reputation – along with Volkswagen's failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system and Volkswagen's affirmative assurance that its Affected Vehicles were safe and reliable, and other similar false statements – in purchasing or leasing Volkswagen's Affected Vehicles.

664. As a result of their reliance, Plaintiff and the other Class members have been injured in an amount to be proven at trial, including, but not limited to, their lost benefit of the bargain and overpayment at the time of purchase or lease and/or the diminished value of their Affected Vehicles.

665. Volkswagen's conduct was knowing, intentional, with malice, demonstrated a complete lack of care, and was in reckless disregard for the rights of Plaintiff and the other Class members. Plaintiff and the other Class members are therefore entitled to an award of punitive damages.

R. Claims Brought on Behalf of the Ohio Subclass

COUNT I
VIOLATIONS OF THE CONSUMER SALES PRACTICES ACT
(OHIO REV. CODE §§ 1345.01, et seq.)

666. Plaintiff Rachel Sullivan ("Plaintiff," for purposes of all Ohio Subclass Counts) incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

667. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

668. Plaintiff and the other Ohio Subclass members are "consumers" as defined by the Ohio Consumer Sales Practices Act, Ohio Rev. Code § 1345.01 ("OCSPA"). Volkswagen is a "supplier" as defined by the OCSPA. Plaintiff's and the other Ohio Subclass members' purchases or leases of Affected Vehicles were "consumer transactions" as defined by the OCSPA.

669. By failing to disclose and actively concealing that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a “defeat device” in the Affected Vehicles, Volkswagen engaged in deceptive business practices prohibited by the OCSPA, including (1) representing that Affected Vehicles have characteristics, uses, benefits, and qualities which they do not have, (2) representing that Affected Vehicles are of a particular standard, quality, and grade when they are not, (3) advertising Affected Vehicles with the intent not to sell them as advertised, and (4) engaging in acts or practices which are otherwise unfair, misleading, false, or deceptive to the consumer.

670. As alleged above, Volkswagen made numerous material statements about the benefits and characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system that were either false or misleading. Each of these statements contributed to the deceptive context of Volkswagen’s unlawful advertising and representations as a whole.

671. Volkswagen knew that the CleanDiesel engine system in the Affected Vehicles were defectively designed or manufactured, did not comply with EPA regulations and the Clean Air Act, and were not suitable for their intended use. Volkswagen nevertheless failed to warn Plaintiff about these defects despite having a duty to do so.

672. Volkswagen owed Plaintiff a duty to disclose the defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine system in the Affected Vehicles, because Volkswagen:

- i) Possessed exclusive knowledge of the defects rendering the Affected Vehicles more unreliable than similar vehicles;
- ii) Intentionally concealed the use and installation of the “defeat device” that Volkswagen that it designed to hide the defects in the CleanDiesel engine system; and/or
- iii) Made incomplete representations about the characteristics and performance of the CleanDiesel engine system generally, while purposefully withholding material facts from Plaintiff that contradicted these representations.

673. Volkswagen's unfair or deceptive acts or practices were likely to, and did in fact, deceive reasonable consumers, including Plaintiff, about the true performance and characteristics of the CleanDiesel engine system.

674. The Ohio Attorney General has made available for public inspection prior state court decisions which have held that the acts and omissions of Volkswagen in this Complaint, including, but not limited to, the failure to honor both implied warranties and express warranties, the making and distribution of false, deceptive, and/or misleading representations, and the concealment and/or non-disclosure of a dangerous defect, constitute deceptive sales practices in violation of the OCSPA. These cases include, but are not limited to, the following:

- a. Mason v. Mercedes Benz USA, LLC (OPIF #10002382);
- b. State ex rel. Betty D. Montgomery v. Volkswagen Motor Co. (OPIF #10002123);
- c. State ex rel. Betty D. Montgomery v. Bridgestone/Firestone, Inc. (OPIF #10002025);
- d. Bellinger v. Hewlett-Packard Co., No. 20744, 2002 Ohio App. LEXIS 1573 (Ohio Ct. App. Apr. 10, 2002) (OPIF #10002077);
- e. Borror v. MarineMax of Ohio, No. OT-06-010, 2007 Ohio App. LEXIS 525 (Ohio Ct. App. Feb. 9, 2007) (OPIF #10002388);
- f. State ex rel. Jim Petro v. Craftmatic Organization, Inc. (OPIF #10002347);
- g. Mark J. Craw Volkswagen, et al. v. Joseph Airport Toyota, Inc. (OPIF #10001586);
- h. State ex rel. William J. Brown v. Harold Lyons, et al. (OPIF #10000304);
- i. Brinkman v. Mazda Motor of America, Inc. (OPIF #10001427);
- j. Khoury v. Don Lewis (OPIF #100001995);
- k. Mosley v. Performance Mitsubishi aka Automanage (OPIF #10001326);
- l. Walls v. Harry Williams dba Butch's Auto Sales (OPIF #10001524); and
- m. Brown v. Spears (OPIF #10000403).

675. As a result of its violations of the OCSA, as detailed above, Volkswagen caused actual damage to Plaintiff and, if not stopped, will continue to harm Plaintiff. Plaintiff currently owns or leases, or within the class period has owned or leased, an Affected Vehicle that is defective. Defects associated with the CleanDiesel engine system have caused the value of Affected Vehicles to decrease.

676. Plaintiff and the Class sustained damages as a result of Volkswagen's unlawful acts and are, therefore, entitled to damages and other relief as provided under the OCSA.

677. Plaintiff also seeks court costs and attorneys' fees as a result of Volkswagen's violations of the OCSA as provided in Ohio Rev. Code § 1345.09.

COUNT II
BREACH OF CONTRACT
(BASED ON OHIO LAW)

678. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

679. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

680. Volkswagen's misrepresentations and omissions alleged herein, including Volkswagen's failure to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design as alleged herein, caused Plaintiff and the other Ohio Subclass members to make their purchases or leases of their Affected Vehicles. Absent those misrepresentations and omissions, Plaintiff and the other Ohio Subclass members would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles, would not have purchased or leased these Affected Vehicles at the prices they paid, and/or would have purchased or leased less expensive alternative vehicles that did not contain the CleanDiesel engine system and which were not marketed as including such a system. Accordingly, Plaintiff and the other Ohio Subclass members overpaid for their Affected Vehicles and did not receive the benefit of their bargain.

681. Each and every sale or lease of an Affected Vehicle constitutes a contract between Volkswagen and the purchaser or lessee. Volkswagen breached these contracts by selling or leasing Plaintiff and the other Ohio Subclass members defective Affected Vehicles and by misrepresenting or failing to disclose the existence of the CleanDiesel engine system's defect and/or defective design, including information known to Volkswagen, rendering each Affected Vehicle non-EPA-compliant, and thus less valuable, than vehicles not equipped with a CleanDiesel engine system.

682. As a direct and proximate result of Volkswagen's breach of contract, Plaintiff and the Ohio Subclass have been damaged in an amount to be proven at trial, which shall include, but is not limited to, all compensatory damages, incidental and consequential damages, and other damages allowed by law.

COUNT III
FRAUDULENT CONCEALMENT
(BASED ON OHIO LAW)

683. Plaintiff incorporates by reference all preceding allegations as though fully set forth herein.

684. Plaintiff brings this Count on behalf of the Ohio Subclass.

685. Volkswagen intentionally concealed that the CleanDiesel engine systems were not EPA-compliant and used a "defeat device," or acted with reckless disregard for the truth, and denied Plaintiff and the other Class members' information that is highly relevant to their purchasing decision.

686. Volkswagen further affirmatively misrepresented to Plaintiff in advertising and other forms of communication, including standard and uniform material provided with each car, that the Affected Vehicles it was selling were new, had no significant defects, complied with EPA regulations and would perform and operate properly when driven in normal usage.

687. Volkswagen knew these representations were false when made.

688. The Affected Vehicles purchased or leased by Plaintiff and the other Class members were, in fact, defective, non-EPA compliant, unsafe, and unreliable because the Affected Vehicles contained the faulty and defective CleanDiesel engine system, as alleged herein.

689. Volkswagen had a duty to disclose that these Affected Vehicles were defective, unsafe, non-EPA compliant and unreliable in that certain crucial emissions functions of the Affected Vehicles would be rendered inoperative due to the “defeat device” installed in the defective CleanDiesel engine system, because Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s material representations that the Affected Vehicles they were purchasing were safe, environmentally clean, efficient and free from defects.

690. The aforementioned concealment was material because if it had been disclosed Plaintiff and the other Class members would not have bought or leased the Affected Vehicles, or would not have bought or leased those Vehicles at the prices they paid.

691. The aforementioned representations were material because they were facts that would typically be relied on by a person purchasing or leasing a new motor vehicle. Volkswagen knew or recklessly disregarded that its representations were false because it knew that it had to use the “defeat device” in order for Affected Vehicles to pass EPA emissions requirements. Volkswagen intentionally made the false statements in order to sell Affected Vehicles.

692. Plaintiff and the other Class members relied on Volkswagen’s reputation – along with Volkswagen’s failure to disclose the faulty and defective nature of the CleanDiesel engine
